Youth center rising, Will Hall to fall

Auction scores, brings town closer to goal of youth center

By Rebecca Piro

The Andover Youth Foundation has just added $75,000 to its coffers.

The packed "Raising the Roof" auction last Friday night at Andover Country Club drew more than 400 people, bringing the total money for the new youth center project to $1.6 million, says Tom Jones, fundraiser for AYF.

"Friday night is a good indication that support (for the project) is strong," says Jones. "We've had only positive reactions."

Items up for bid included a trip to Germany, VIP tickets to the Boston Marathon and a gourmet meal cooked for the purchaser inside their very own home.

The money will fund a youth center AYF has proposed to build off Ledge Road in West Andover. Voters at Special Town Meeting last year agreed to give AYF a piece of town land on which to build the center, a $4.2 million project. AYF has promised to raise all of the money privately, and plans to return the completed building to town ownership for operation. Jones had predicted a possible 2002 ground breaking, but with the slumping economy he now says the construction won't start until 2003. He hopes the center will open in 2004.

"The major effect of what's going on in the economy is that things move more slowly," he says. "People are being much more cautious, and I think that's probably the right thing."

AYF received $1.5 million, its first major gift, from Yvon Cormier last month. The Andona Society gave $30,000 a few weeks before that.

While there were no additional major fundraising donations announced Friday, Jones says no potential gifts have fallen through. He says he hopes to close all major donation agreements, including foundation and corporation giving, in the next two to three months.

"There are going to be more announcements coming," he says. "This is a miracle that will happen."

AYF will present comedian Lenny Clarke at Andover High School's Collins Center Saturday night, with all proceeds to benefit the youth center.

Proposed PA senior center site to face wrecking ball

By Rebecca Piro

What is treasure to some Andover seniors is now as good as trash to Phillips Academy.

The private school is taking the wrecking ball to Williams Hall — the building that has served as a dormitory for high-school freshmen, and more recently as a potential site for Andover's new senior center.

PA trustees voted last week to raze Will Hall after the town ended a lease agreement in August to renovate the building and use it as a senior center. The Friends of Andover Seniors, a private fundraising group for the project, confirmed in July that it had failed to come up with the needed $5.2 million to renovate the building. Now, PA officials have announced that they too are finished with Will Hall.

"It's a sad day for us," says Michael Williams, PA director of facilities. "We said all along that if this (lease agreement) didn't work out, we didn't have a need for (the

Web question

Should the town's water treatment plant be expanded at this time?

Last week's Townsmen Website question was: What do you think must happen for a successful, thriving Andover Center Association?

Out of 21 respondents:

► 10 people, or 48 percent, said, "It is up to the businesses alone to put more time and energy into the association, including finding a new, charismatic chairman."

► 6 people, or 29 percent, said, "Town officials must get involved to make sure programs, like Breakfast with Santa continue."

► 4 people, or 19 percent, said, "The association does not have the manpower or the desire to become successful. It should disband."

► 1 person, or 5 percent, said, "The association is just fine as is."

This week's question: The town manager has recommended setting aside millions of dollars for a possible expansion of the water treatment plant. What do you think should be done?

• The town must try conservation methods first to cut back the water demands on the plant.

• Town officials must reevaluate policies concerning the selling of water to other communities.

• We should continue selling our water to other communities, and to do that, the plant must be expanded to keep up with the demand.

• Other.

IN BRIEF

Open House

New members and area residents interested in the Andover/North Andover League of Women Voters are invited to a coffee, "Meet the Presidents," from 7:30 to 9 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Nov. 8 at the home of Liz Richter. Richter and Diana Walsh are jointly chairing the Andover/North Andover chapter this year. At the coffee the program and action agenda for this year will be discussed. Those interested may contact Richter at 978-474-0061.

Warrant is open

Selectmen officially opened the annual Town Meeting warrant Monday, Oct. 29, and they will keep it open until Friday, Jan. 18. Residents and town officials have almost three months to submit the articles residents will vote on in April.

Monday holiday

The Townsmen business offices will be closed on Monday.

Nutcracker coverage

In the Nov. 29 Holiday Gift Guide, the Townsmen will publish a listing of local students who are performing in The Nutcracker. Parents or dance instructors who would like to provide write-ups and photos for this story must submit them to the Townsmen, Attn: Nutcracker, by noon on Monday, Nov. 19 for inclusion in the paper. Photos cannot be returned.

Finegold office hours

Representative Barry R. Finegold and staff will be holding office hours on Thursday, Nov. 29 at the Andover Senior Center from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., and at Starbuck's on Main Street from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Veterans prepare a salute during last year's Veterans Day ceremonies.

Veterans Day activities

Tom Haugh, John Doherty to be honored for service

The town of Andover will salute its veterans at three ceremonies on Sunday, Nov. 11, Veterans Day. According to John Doherty, director of veterans services, the town will honor its veterans at:

WEST PARISH CEMETERY at 10 a.m., with the placing of floral tribute by Warren Kearn, Dot Volker, and Fred Pease. There will be a balloon release and a cannon salute.

SPRING GROVE CEMETERY at 11 a.m., by the American Legion Lot, with the placing of floral tribute by Louis Heliotis, DAV No. 18 and Ted Witman, American Legion. The Andover High School band will perform Taps and Robert Johnston of Clan McPherson will sing.

BALLARDALE GREEN at 11:45 a.m. The ceremony will open with the Andover High School Band performing the national anthem and presentation of awards to Thomas Haugh (Bronze Star) and John Doherty (three Purple Hearts, RVN Honor Medal). A floral tribute will be made by the Board of Selectmen and School Committee. American Legion Post No. 8 and the Andover High band will lead the rifle salute and perform Taps.

Town Offices will be closed the next day, Monday, Nov. 12.

Thousands of residents practice preventive medicine by running the Feaster Five Thanksgiving morning, before they dive into their drumsticks and apple pies.

Gobble up these Feaster facts

Registration has begun for popular Thanksgiving road race

By Judy Wakefield

It's November and typically that means everyone starts talking about turkey day.

Thanksgiving Andover-style means kicking off the day with the very popular Feaster Five Road Race. It is being held for the 14th time on Thursday morning, Nov. 22. The Feaster Five involves a 5-mile, 5K and Kid's K races. The Kid's K steps off at 8 a.m. and the runners and walkers start at 8:30 a.m.

Runners can pick up numbers on these days: Monday, Nov. 19 and Tuesday, Nov. 20 from noon to 7 p.m. and Wednesday, Nov. 21 from noon to 6 p.m. at the Ramada Inn Rolling Green, Lowell Street, Andover.

Runners can also pick up numbers on race day from 7 to 8:15 a.m. at Woodworth Motors, Shawsheen Square, Andover.

The race course goes through the streets of Andover, starting on Main Street at the corner of Route 28 in Shawsheen Square, and finishing at Brickstone Square.

Entry fees are $20 for runners and walkers while the Kid's K entry fee is $5. Entrants can make out checks to DMSE/Feaster and mail to Feaster Five, DMSE, Inc., PO Box 80067, Stoneham, MA 02180.

The first 6,000 entrants who register get a long-sleeved race T-shirt and all finishers get an apple pie.

Participants should bring canned goods that will be donated to Lazarus House in Lawrence.

North Main Street work ahead

Sewer interceptor to be expanded, beginning next week

By Rebecca Piro

North Main Street may turn into a bit of a rocky road for the next week.

Workers will start digging Monday near the Shawsheen Plaza to begin improvements to the sewer interceptor, a major connector pipe that lies underground in the Stevens Street and North Main Street area. The work is a crucial element in the $30,000 sewer expansion project, says Jack Petkus, Public Works director.

Voters approved the sewer project in 1999, but it wasn't until last November that town officials realized they would have to increase the interceptor's capacity — an unanticipated cost. The state Department of Environmental Protection, concerned about an overflow of the interceptor in May of 2000, would not grant Andover the needed permits for the project unless officials agreed to increase the interceptor's capacity. DPW officials said the overflow was due to lumber trapped inside the pipe, but DEP wanted to be sure that the interceptor could handle the extra sewerage once extra homes are tapped into the expanded system.

"If this (interceptor expansion) doesn't go, residents will be spending $30 million on (sewers) that they can't use," Petkus said in an earlier interview.

The interceptor work involves digging up North Main Street and installing a 24-inch pipe next to the interceptor currently in the ground, almost doubling the capacity. The work, which could wrap up as soon as Wednesday, Nov. 21, is not yet costing the town additional money, Petkus says. The first sewer contract for the Ballardvale area came in $790,000 under budget. The extra money the town will save through that contract should cover the interceptor's $650,000 upgrade, he says.

No resident on the expanded sewer system will be able to connect to sewer until the interceptor work is complete, Petkus says. He is hoping that the first residents will be able to hook up to sewer by mid-spring.

Leaf pick-up

The Department of Public Works has issued a schedule for the fall leaf pick-up service. Residents can put their leaves out for disposal in boxes, barrels or clear plastic bags so the leaves are visible, says Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. Leaves will be picked up from Nov. 13 to 16 and Nov. 26 to 30. Call the Department of Public Works at 623-8350 for more information.

The routes of the local letter carriers are being revised. The intention is to enlarge the area of delivery by Carrier Feeney who uses a carriage.

50 Years Ago In Andover

A fire destroyed a two-story barn and the contents of the home of Ronald H. Sherman, of Central Street. The fire also endangered the lives of several firemen when a section of the interior collapsed while they were in the building fighting the blaze from ladders.

Fire Chief C. Buchan estimated the damage to be about $25,000. Two automobiles, a 1951 station wagon and a 1947 convertible, power machinery, furniture, and other items stored in the barn were also lost.

The flag of the United Nations was flying alone from the staff at the Memorial Hall Library. The flag was raised for United Nations Day despite protest from local patriotic and veterans organizations.

The license of Fred's Lunch Inc. has been suspended by the Board of Selectman for a period of 10 days. This action was taken on account of a court conviction in connection with the establishment selling liquor to minors.

Andover officially became a member of the Lawrence Suburban Little League Monday night at an organization meeting held by the Lawrence Kiwanis club, sponsors of the project. The league had four teams last season and was an instant success. Lawrence will have eight teams next season and four more will be sponsored by suburban communities.

Albert Cole Jr., of Foster Circle, has just received notice from adjutant general, department of the army, that by direction of the president he has been awarded the Bronze Star medal, First Oak Leaf Cluster, for exemplary conduct in ground combat against the armed enemy while assigned as a second lieutenant to the 12th Cavalry regiment in Pacific Theater of operations.

25 Years Ago In Andover

Andover police, through continued investigation, have cleared up a number of minor house-breaks and some recent bicycle thefts in recent weeks. The probe, which is continuing, will lead to court appearances by two adults and some individuals suspected of the thefts.

Parents and teachers turned out in full force at a School Committee meeting to protest some mid-term transfers, but were denied the opportunity to make their feelings known. Last week it was proposed that one kindergarten class at both Shawsheen and Sanborn School would be cut to free up one full-time teacher's salary. Several transfers would be necessary to make that one salary cut. School Committee Chairman George Olsen announced that the proposed teacher transfers were not on the agenda and therefore would not be discussed.

Improvement and modernization of the Boston and Maine Railroad tracks through Andover is raising havoc with the town's utility lines and budget. The railroad is lowering tracks under bridges, thus necessitating lowering drainage and sewer lines. An agreement drawn between the town and the railroad dates back to the 1800s and is in the hands of the town council for review. At odds are who should pay for the relaying of utility lines. Railroad officials are in the opinion that since the town has easement of their property that the town should pay for the work.

Hundreds of mourners paid final tributes this week to two Andover young people who died as a result of injuries sustained in an early morning accident at Walnut and Elm streets. The youths, Peter T. Aumais, 18 and son of Patrolman and Mrs. Richard Aumais of Washington Avenue, and Anne Gardner Wobesky, 16, daughter of Norman A. and Beverly (Brown) Wobesky of Salem Street, were passengers in the rear seat of a car.

Town land for sale?

By Rebecca Piro

In the search for more affordable housing, volunteers are sifting through forgotten town-owned land parcels in hopes of finding prime building sites.

Approximately 150 parcels, consisting of open space and tax-title land, are under evaluation, says Planning Director Steve Colyer. Members of the planning and zoning boards, as well as the Andover Housing Partnership Committee, are scoping each parcel to see if any are suitable for housing.

Years ago, selectmen agreed not to sell town land unless it was first deemed inappropriate for affordable housing, says Colyer. Affordable housing has become an increasingly important issue in Andover in the past year, as real-estate prices have escalated and large homes have continued to replace smaller, lower-priced dwellings. Colyer reminded selectmen of that promise when businessman Joe Watson approached them recently with a request to buy a piece of land in the Lowell Junction area for his construction company.

Watson's business, JW Watson Jr. Inc., is located directly behind the property in question, explains his lawyer, Andrew Caffrey. Watson would like to purchase the property – for an amount he says he hasn't decided yet – to use as an access to the business.

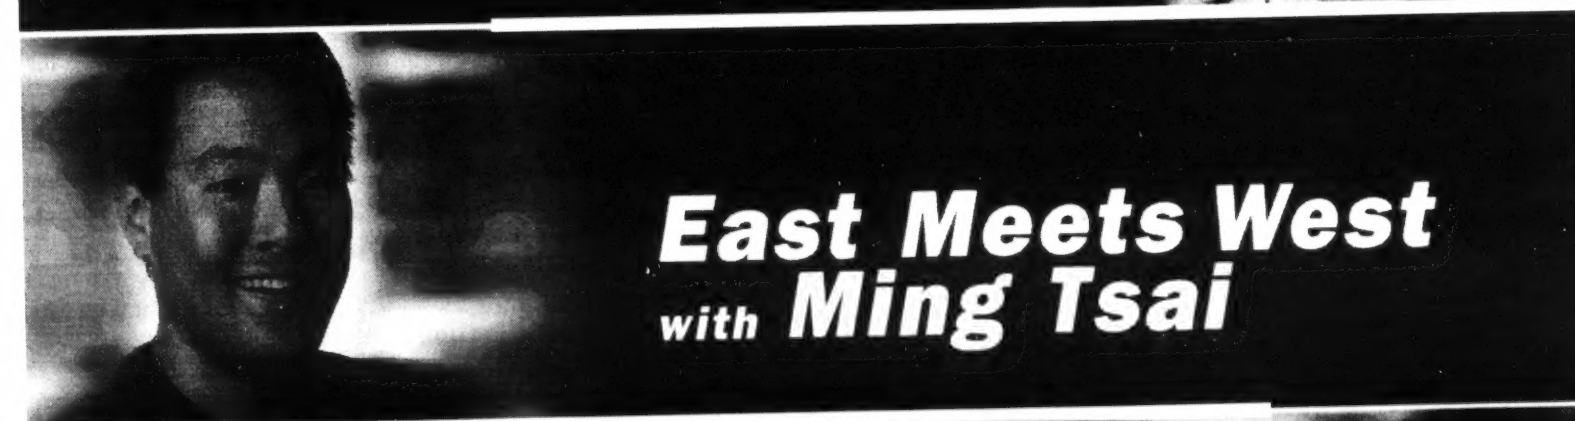

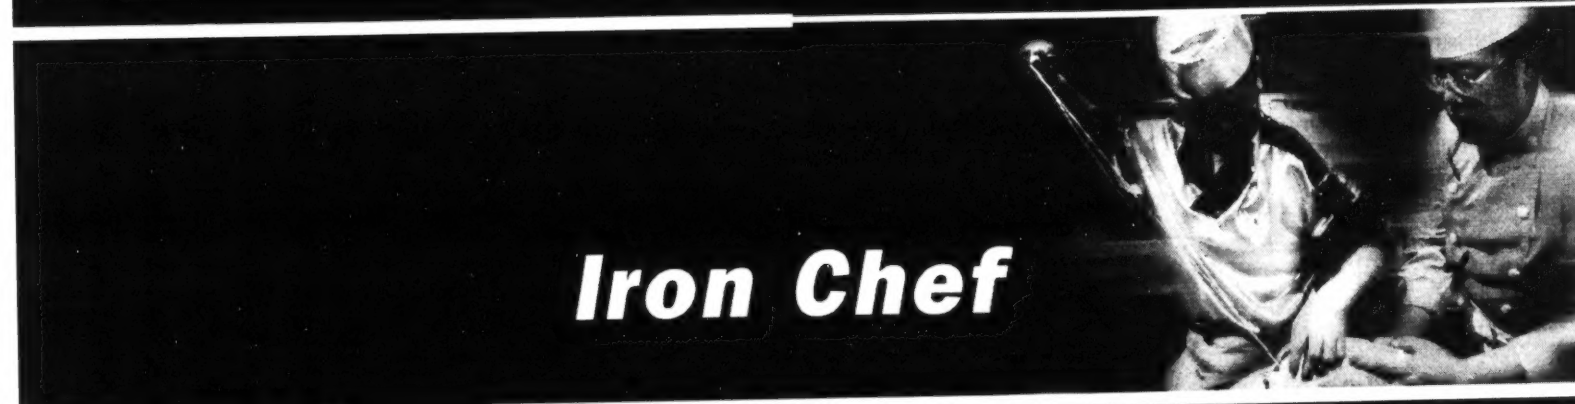

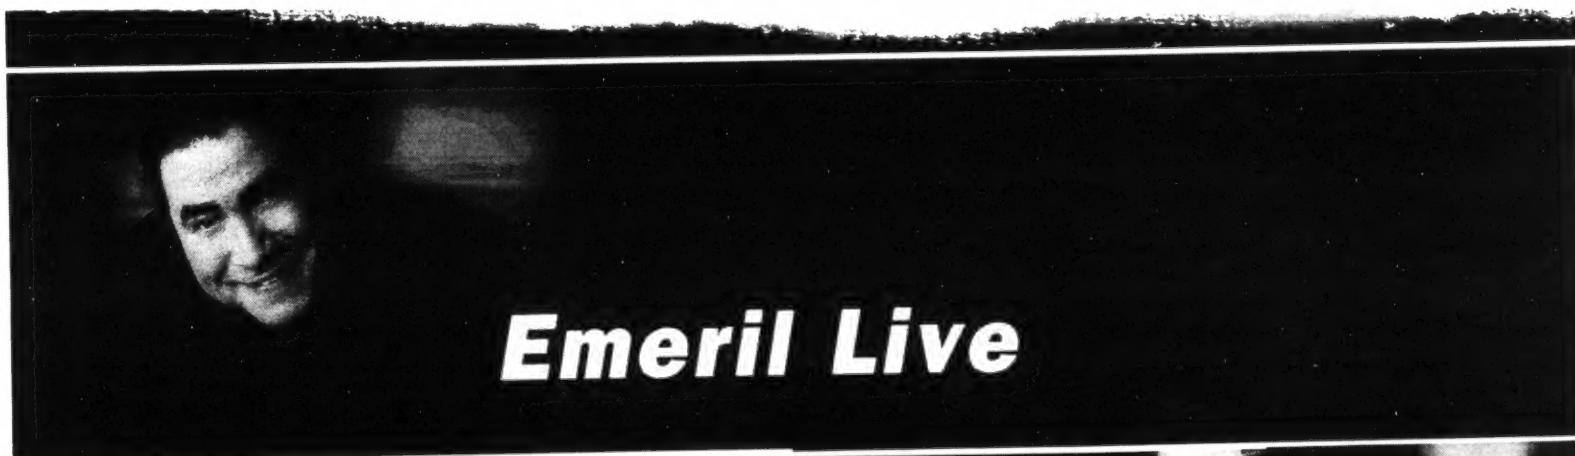

Selectmen do not like to be in the business of real estate, says Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. They haven't sold a piece of town land for years, with the exception of a tax-title parcel on Lincoln Street.

Colyer has recommended that officials not consider the Lowell Junction parcel for affordable housing.

"My recommendation is to go ahead (with a sales agreement) because of where it's located," he says. The plot is approximately one acre in size, industrially zoned and located near train tracks. "It just doesn't lend itself to housing."

Volunteers should complete their initial sweep of the town-owned parcels within the week, Colyer adds.

Keep warrant brief, focused for our future

It's early in the budget cycle, and there are many decisions still to be made. However, selectmen would do well over the next two months to limit the number of expensive projects they ask taxpayers to consider this year.

In past years, town officials have often brought dozens of articles to Town Meeting. The general approach has appeared to be this: let's leave it up to residents to decide just how many projects they can afford. That's one of the wonderful things about Open Town Meeting — it's up to the residents. But this year, appointed and elected officials, who deal with town finances and needs on a regular basis, must be more selective about what they bring.

Andover is already going to vote on whether to fund its first ever general override of Proposition 2½. It's considering the tax hike that comes with approving the Community Preservation Act. For the past several weeks there's been talk of needing to expand the water treatment plant. That is just one part of the more than $12 million in capital improvement projects the town manager has recommended.

Limiting the number of projects on this year's warrant will allow officials to use the days between Jan. 18, when the warrant closes, and Town Meeting to discuss with residents the needs they see as most dire. The water treatment plant expansion needs particular attention. Most residents were not aware until a few weeks ago that Andover uses more than 14 million gallons of water per day in the summer, near the capacity of the plant. They don't know that the town has a contract with North Reading that may actually encourage North Reading to use more water. The more water North Reading uses, the less it pays Andover per unit.

A limited warrant will allow for pointed discussion on water conservation and other matters. In economic times like these, residents need their leaders to prioritize. A limited warrant will also allow town leaders to focus on those things that are truly vital for the town's immediate and long-term future. Focused public debate and education should also allow for those projects that are most worthy to win approval.

have never shared their stories. Even when someone asks them directly about it, they have little to say.

Right now, for instance, Doherty is working on a Vietnam vet he believes won the Silver Star, but never had it publicly presented to him. Doherty would like to arrange a ceremony. But the vet won't tell him anything.

"I told him if he didn't come clean I'd do a Freedom of Information Act search and embarrass him, and he said, 'That's what you'll have to do,'" says Doherty.

Doherty should understand how these veterans feel, however. He can be like that himself.

Pushed by the Patriotic Holiday Committee to do so, Doherty will receive a Purple Heart (Second Oak Leaf Cluster) and an Armed Forces Honor Medal from the Republic of South Vietnam on Veterans Day. Asked about the honors, Doherty downplays his recognition.

"I'm an afterthought," he says, in deference to Tom Haugh who will receive a Bronze Star for valor that day. Haugh is the World War II veteran who received his Silver Star at the Air National Guard Band concert in October. Haugh earned both medals during the same week of fighting.

"It's Tom Haugh, Part II (on Veterans Day). To get those two medals three days apart is remarkable," says Doherty. "And he was wounded during all that and refused to take a Purple Heart."

Doherty himself was wounded three times, but never had any of the Purple Hearts, or his other medals and awards presented to him formally.

"No one has ever presented me with anything. Part of that was the way I left the Army, which was during the Tet offensive," he says. Doherty arrived back in the US, literally still bleeding.

He never bothered to make sure all of his honors were noted on his discharge papers. "The disconnect started as soon as I got home in March of '68. I wanted to put it all behind me," he says.

It wasn't really until the Persian Gulf War that Doherty could even have imagined holding a position like his, as the town's veterans agent. But now he's thrilled to be doing what he's doing.

"It's been everything I hoped it could be and more. Every once in a while my wife will say, 'Boy, you've really gotten into that job. You are really happy,'" he says. Doherty holds up a photo of the four men honored on Memorial Day earlier this year. The men, World War II veterans he convinced to receive their awards publically, are smiling and standing before the town.

"This alone makes it worthwhile," he says, "and I know there are other stories out there. I'm trying to develop a network of spies."

Someone — a wife, a son, a daughter — must be willing to talk about these veterans. Even if they, like Doherty, are not interested in talking about themselves.

What about that Bronze Star of yours, John?

"John Wayne, I ain't," he says.

Recognizing a leader as he moves on

Editor, Townsmen:

With the sale of Andover Bank, many of us in the business community can't help but pause as one of our core institutions changes hands. I would like to be sure that the moment does not pass without recognizing what a significant impact Gerry Mulligan has had on the town of Andover and business community in particular, during his tenure as the president of Andover Bank.

The integrity, professionalism and compassion with which he lead the "troops" at Andover Bank has certainly spilled over to a very measurable extent to the town of Andover and the Merrimack Valley. Our business and civic communities are richer for his having been at the helm.

Although Andover Bank has not been our personal bank of choice, I want to acknowledge Gerry's strong leadership in our community. The many projects and services of the bank made available to the community by Gerry are too numerous to mention. I hope that his leadership in the community will not end with the changing of the guard, but rather, somehow, transfer to another venue.

As he puts the final touches on the sale of the bank, we realize that the changes in business will always include mergers and acquisitions; however, I can't help but feel a twinge of remorse at his leaving the front stage. In many ways, the best and the brightest of Andover Bank was not purchased by the new owners.

Snail mail is not the way to reach Senate

Editor, Townsmen:

I apologize to the many constituents who have sent mail to my Senate office in Washington in recent weeks. In the wake of the recent events, all mail delivery to the United States Capitol has been temporarily halted as a sensible precaution. I regret very much that this has happened, because I know how very important it is for constituents to be in touch.

It is unclear at this time when mail delivery will resume. In the meantime, until it does, constituents can reach my Washington office by sending faxes or email to me as follows: by fax: 202-224-2417; by e-mail: <senator@kennedy.senate.gov>.

Again, I apologize for the inconvenience that this may cause to many constituents. I will be back in touch as soon as mail delivery resumes and ask for your patience until then.

over the years. And they feel comfortable sharing their thoughts in this small place. (Note: While the following conversation is true, the names have been changed to protect the innocent).

Ann: I don't know about you, but ever since September 11th, I sigh all the time. This whole war scene makes me incredibly sad.

Beth: I know what you mean. With all this bombing, who knows if we'll even get the terrorists. In the meantime, innocent women and children are leaving their homes. And winter's coming.

Ann: I know. I tell my husband that I don't think we should be bombing over there. You know what he says? That I don't know what I'm talking about. That I'm too emotional.

Beth: My husband and his buddies are the same way. They're really angry.

Ann: Well, I'm upset, too. But I'm more sad than angry. My son is 18, and I don't want him going to war. In fact, I don't want any mother's heart to break because her son is going to war - whether she lives in America or Afghanistan.

Dawn: So what does your husband say about that? When you mention your son?

Ann: He says, "Of course he'll go to war if this country needs him. You don't know what you're talking about." And I tell him that I do know. That I'm worried about this war escalating into a nuclear disaster. That war begets war. That hate begets hate. But he just blows me off and says I don't get it. Well, I don't think he gets it.

Dawn: Most people are really afraid right now. I mean, I can't imagine anyone thinking that war is a glorious or a good thing.

Beth: No, war isn't a good thing. But what are we supposed to do? Let terrorists kill our innocent people and not do anything about it? Sit back and take it?

Ann: I don't know. But for me, war isn't the answer. There have to be other ways.

Dawn (giggling): Hey, we could get a movement started and do what the Greek women did when they got so upset about all the wars in their country - the wars that the Greeks and the Spartans were always waging.

Beth: What'd they do?

Dawn (laughing): Actually, it happened in a famous Greek play - Lysistrada. The women on both sides got so upset with their men's constant fighting that, late one night, they all got together and made a secret pact - one that absolutely every woman had to swear to. Until their husbands and boyfriends stopped fighting, the women would refuse to, um, how should I put this? Let the men have any more physical pleasures.

Ann (laughing): Really? You're kidding?

Dawn: Nope. That's what the women decided to do. If the men insisted on war, then the women insisted on keeping their bodies to themselves.

Beth (laughing): Now, that's what I call original. So what happens?

Dawn: At first, the men don't take the women seriously. They think they'll never be able to keep a promise like that.

Ann (giggling): So do they?

Dawn: (laughing): Yep, they do. All the women stay united and support each other. Because they're tired of all the killing. And they want their sons and husbands home with them.

Beth: So, who wins this battle of wills? The men?

Dawn (laughing): No. The women win. Of course. The men stop fighting because they can't stand it any longer. And so the war ends. Thanks to the women.

Ann (grinning): Hey, I like that story. And you know what? It felt good to laugh again. I haven't done much of that lately.

Dawn: Me, neither.

Beth: Maybe the three of us will meet up here again someday. You know, just for laughs.

(Then the women say good night, each driving in a separate direction).

'Hardball' host makes his pitch, on Bush, Clinton, more

Up against the seventh game of the World Series and the Emmy Awards on Sunday, political commentator Chris Matthews held his own, attracting a crowd to the Rogers Center at Merrimack College to hear him speak.

Matthews, the host of Hardball with Chris Matthews on CNBC and MSNBC and a syndicated columnist who appears in The Eagle-Tribune, frequently elicited laughter and applause from the audience. He took questions at the end of his talk.

Matthews said that he removed some criticism of President George W. Bush from his new book Now, Let Me Tell You What I Really Think following Sept. 11. He said that while Bush had seemed like he needed a mission, after Sept. 11, the country needed a president who would go on a mission. Borrowing a line from Shakespeare, Matthews said that Bush had had "greatness thrust upon him."

Here are Matthews comments on some other issues.

On reporters

Matthews said it's ridiculous for people to argue that reporters shouldn't take sides in the war against terrorism.

"When there's a crime in the street, are we against the crime?" he asked rhetorically. "Are we supposed to be for fires?"

On the FBI director and secrecy

"He will tell you your pants are on fire... if you ask him."

On anthrax exposure

"If you think you're next, you've got a problem. You're not next."

On rising political stars

"John Kerry knows his stuff. Of all the guys (who have been) on my show, he knows his stuff," says Matthews. "Kerry is a really smart guy, but he's not your favorite family member."

On the guest he'd most like

It's Bill Clinton, so he could grill him. Matthews says he'd ask the former president, "Why didn't you want to be a great president? Why did you settle for being prom king?"

On who intimidated him

He says it's his former boss, House Speaker Tip O'Neill. "He scared the hell out of me. And I worked for the guy for years."

Matthews was O'Neill's top senior aide from 1981-1987.

Government Review Committee to Andover government: Most everything just fine as is

By Rebecca Piro

Wondering what Andover should do to improve its charter and form of government? Not a whole lot, according to the Town Government Review Committee.

That's the "preliminary" conclusion members have reached after 18 meetings and one year of study. The committee has issued 20 pages of material to the selectmen and will make a formal presentation this month.

"We have a fairly long list of things that we recommend not making changes on," says member Paul Dow. "We think we have a good charter and a good town government."

Former Selectman Larry Larsen pushed for the study almost two years ago, when he heard rumblings from residents about upgrading Andover from town to city status, and removing Andover's Town Meeting form of government. Those residents, however, apparently haven't spoken up since the Town Government Review Committee was formed one year ago.

"Some people said (those things) should change, but we were not convinced," says Dow. "It was certainly not the majority (feeling)."

The majority feeling may be hard to gauge, however, as only a handful of residents have attended the committee's meetings, and a modest showing of people came to the public hearing in June. On the other hand, the committee has spoken to dozens of town employees, volunteers and officials about the town's government.

Thus far, the committee has recommended that Andover stick to its town identity with a selectmen/town manager form of government.

The committee has not yet issued a recommendation whether Andover should keep its open Town Meeting or switch to a representative Town Meeting or other format.

The committee plans to continue its study and seek further resident input before making its final recommendations, and all of its preliminary recommendations are subject to change, says Dow. The committee members were appointed for two-year terms, and it looks as though the study will take that long, he adds.

The committee has recommended some changes including writing the Strategic Planning Task Force, a committee of selectmen, School Committee and Finance Committee members, into the town bylaws, and increasing communication among all members of town government. The committee will continue to study the open Town Meeting concept and the Capital Improvement Plan, a five-year projection of town projects and funding. Members hope to hold more public hearings in the next year, Dow says.

Dow admits that most of the committee's conclusions thus far recommend doing nothing different than Andover has done for years. But that doesn't imply that the committee didn't bother to seriously consider changes, says Dow.

"People might disagree with our conclusions, but I don't think they can say we didn't do the job," he adds.

"We have a fairly long list of things that we recommend not making changes on."

Trust ready to award first affordable home

Haverhill Street will have new neighbors by Christmas.

Thursday night, tonight, members of Andover Community Trust planned to introduce the family selected to buy the town's first permanently affordable home at 110 Haverhill St. The announcement was kept secret until after Townsmen presstime.

ACT partnered with students at Greater Lawrence Technical School to build the three-bedroom Colonial, scheduled for completion in the next two months. The finished product will be worth more than $200,000 but sold for around $100,000, says ACT president Susan Stott.

Your Dental Health

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D., F.A.G.D.

FLOSSING PHILOSOPHY

To floss your teeth correctly, begin by breaking off about 18 inches of floss. Wind it around the middle or index finger of each hand so that about an inch or two of floss is stretched between the fingers. Holding the floss between thumbs and forefingers, guide it between your teeth, using a gentle rubbing motion. When the floss nears the gum line, gently slide it between the gum and tooth. Avoid snapping the floss into your gums. Hold the floss firmly against the side of one tooth and gently rub it up and down. Do the same for the neighboring tooth, unwinding a clean area of floss for each tooth. Repeat this method for the rest of the teeth.

Just as dental decay is your teeth's worst enemy, flossing, brushing, and regular dental checkups are your teeth's best friends. Has it been so long since your last dental check-up that you can't remember when it was? Then why not take charge of your dental health and call us for an appointment. We offer a complete array of dental treatments, for all members of your family, at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. PH: 978-475-2431

P.S. Waxed floss slides more easily between tightly spaced teeth than unwaxed floss.

HUD issues near $1 million grant

Home for mentally-challenged adults may soon be complex

By Rebecca Piro

If there's anything standing between Raymond DiFiore and his plan to expand Creative Living, it's certainly not money.

DiFiore wants to expand the respite program for mentally-challenged adults — currently located at one house on South Main Street — into an eight-unit complex, where program participants can learn to live on their own.

A nod of approval from the federal government and a nearly-$1 million grant that covers the project's price tag has brought DiFiore, president of Creative Living, one giant step closer to getting his project off the ground. News of the $984,000 grant reached DiFiore this week.

"We're ecstatic," he says. "It's a step in the right direction. This approval will work hand-in-hand in reducing the current waiting list for the mentally challenged and at the same time, securing their independence for the future."

Volunteers mailed an application for the grant to the federal Housing and Urban Development department almost two years ago. At the time, the project was estimated to cost around $850,000, he says. The extra grant money will go towards rent subsidies for mentally-challenged adults who want to live there.

"It's a training ground, if you will, to see what it's like to be independent," DiFiore says of the Creative Living environment.

Residents will be monitored around the clock by volunteers from Lutheran Services, located at the Faith Lutheran Church a neighbor of Creative Living.

DiFiore's own mentally-challenged son is a participant in the current weekend respite program.

The expansion of the program into a live-in experience for participants has always been a goal of Creative Living, which was founded in 1988, DiFiore says. When a barn owned by Creative Living burned down last May, it only made the time to expand seem more opportune.

"We've got a great track record, a very good reputation in the community and it's all done with volunteers," he says.

Volunteers will look now to hire an architect and develop a design for the project.

Creative Living is also looking to move its store, Classic Threads, from Lawrence to an Andover location. The store, which sells quality used and donated clothing, is an opportunity for program participants to gain working experience and raise money for Creative Living.

Pointed discussion — The Board of Health voted to recognize Justin's of Andover as a bar, allowing smoking to continue there.

Smoking allowed

Justin's declared bar; smoking may continue there, rules Board of Health

By Rebecca Piro

If the owners hang a sign up, Justin's patrons can light up.

The Board of Health voted Monday night to allow smoking at Justin's, and officially classified the establishment as one of two bars in town.

When a Town Meeting vote in April approved a stiffer smoking ban, outlawing smoking at all non-bar establishments in town, the Park Street Pub was defined as the only true bar in Andover. The Board of Health says a bar must have a limited pub menu, a stand-alone status and acquire 70 percent of its profits from sign, reading "smoking permitted," be fixed in the window to alert customers of what they will be walking into when they enter Justin's — smoke.

"That wouldn't be a problem," Schnellinger told the board.

Bob Ford, an attorney representing Justin's, was pleased with the vote. "It's a good decision," he says. "We fit well within the definition of a pub in the bylaw."

The Board of Health also will require Park Street Pub to post a sign alerting customers that smoking is allowed inside that establishment.

Posting a sign to inform patrons of the smoke satisfied board member Dan Coleman. He made public, however, his concerns about what the decision means for the enhanced smoking ban. "I have a sense that there are some people in this room whose goal is to change what we did in April," he said.

Characters Bar & Grill at the Wyndham Andover Hotel, which allowed smoking before the October ban went into effect, had expressed interest to the Townsmen prior to the vote

A fire in Creative Living's barn claimed the old structure this spring, but the Creative Living house still stands. Now, the organization is considering a complex.

First of its kind home awarded today

The family was chosen from more than 100 applicants. The combined household income for each applicant had to be within 60 to 80 percent of the area median income, which is $64,000.

All four finalists for the home have lived in Andover and have school-age children. Families who applied included town employees, people living in the Andover Housing Authority and people who grew up in Andover but are not living there now because of the high real-estate prices.

According to the house's deed, the resale value cannot grow faster than the median income of the area, says Stott. ACT also has the first opportunity to buy back the house if it goes on the market. Stott says it is ACT's intent to repurchase the property when and if it comes up for sale again in the future.

ACT has plans to create more permanently affordable homes in Andover. A donated plot on Heather Drive is ACT's next focus, Stott says.

MEMORIAL HALL LIBRARY NEWS

By Norma Gammon

Community Services Librarian

Here are some of the events happening in November at Memorial Hall Library.

CULTURAL EVENTS

Nov. 18th, Sunday 2:30 p.m.

THE GENTLEMEN SONGSTERS Barbershop Chorus

On Nov. 18, at 2:30 p.m., The Gentlemen Songsters Barbershop Chorus will perform at Memorial Hall Library. Barbershop harmony, like jazz and the spiritual, is a truly American art form. The voice parts that comprise the a cappella four-part harmony are: tenor, lead, baritone and bass. This group of men are a happy, fun group that will have your feet tapping and your hands clapping.

Competing in the Northeastern District Patriot Division they have won the Patriot Division's Small Chorus trophy five times.

Program: A demonstration of a variety of hors d'oeuvres for the holidays

Marsha Cohen

Marsha Cohen, owner of The Best of Thymes, will give a demonstration at Memorial Hall Library on Wednesday, Nov. 14th at 9:30 a.m. featuring "A variety of hors d'oeuvres for the holidays."

Cohen has been providing food and service for parties in the Merrimack Valley for 12 years. At The Best of Thymes' original location in Andover, the company developed their catering business while also serving breakfast and lunch to local patrons. Moving to North Andover three years ago, the company is now focusing exclusively on catering, providing either full-service or pick-up of any items from their extensive menu.

The Best of Thymes, under Cohen's direction, has been voted "Best Caterer in the Andovers" by Market Surveys of America three years in a row. She is willing to share the recipes and assembly techniques of some of the delicious hors d'oeuvres that have helped make the company so successful.

Little Listeners (3.5- to 5-year-olds)

Our fall series of story hours for pre-schoolers will begin in November and will continue for a total of five weeks. At each session, we will enjoy three or four picture books together. Group activities, such as songs, finger plays, and story-crafts will complement the listening experience.

There will be 4 weekly groups, meeting as follows:

- Tuesday 9:30-10:15, begins on Nov. 13

- Wednesday 9:30-10:15, begins on Nov. 14
- 1:15-2:00, also begins on Nov. 14
- Thursday 9:30-10:15, begins on Nov. 15

Register through Nov. 9

Parents or care-givers are requested to register in person. We will have important information to give you when you sign up.

Pajama Party

Pajama Party is an evening story hour for those pre-schoolers who are unable to participate in our morning programs. Children may come dressed in their "jammies" if they wish. Bed-time stories as well as quiet songs, games, and a short film will be presented with the goal of providing an enjoyable and relaxing listening time. Pajama Party meets Tuesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:15. The series begins on Nov. 13 and continues through Dec. 11. No Registration Required!

Ribbon-cutting and open house

Memorial Hall Library celebrated the re-opening of its expanded Children's Room and new Young Adult area on Saturday, Oct. 27th with a ribbon-cutting and open house. The Andover community enjoyed cookies, cider, and coffee supplied by the Friends of the Library while taking in the new facilities that provide more room for books, music, and computer for children, teens, and their families.

To see more pictures about the new space in the library and to find out more about all the library's programs, check out the library's home page at <www.mhl.org>.

Legends and Tales at Rogers Center

The Andover Chamber Music Series brings story and music together for a special concert called "Legends and Tales" at Marblehead's Old North Church, 35 Washington St., on Friday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m. The same concert will be repeated at ACMS's "home venue" at Merrimack College, the Rogers Center for the Arts in North Andover, on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 11, at 4 p.m.

Ticket for this second concert of the ACMS fifth anniversary season are $22, $18 and $16 for the Nov. 11 concert in North Andover and $20 for the Nov. 9 concert at Old North Church in Marblehead.

Smoking may continue at Justin's, because it meets the Board of Health's definition of a bar, which includes the fact that more than 70 percent of its business comes from alcohol sales.

in following Justin's lead. Palmers Restaurant and Grill 93's Comedy Palace also saw their smoking sections shut down by the ban. Their managers were not available to comment on whether they will pursue the matter. But Health Director Everett Penney said challenges by those establishments will not mean the downfall of the newly-established smoking ban.

To classify an establishment as a bar, the board requires that 70 percent of an establishment's business must come from alcohol sales, and no more than 30 percent come from food. Park Street Pub owner Rick Pruneau, for example, says his food services are less than 2 percent of his sales. When Justin's approached the board this time, Schnellinger brought with her receipts that show her business is 79 percent alcohol-related and 21 percent food-related. But hotel lounges and comedy clubs cannot hope to make that 70/30 cut, Penney says.

"They would have to consider the receipts from the entire food institution of the hotel (or club)," he says.

Ron Beauregard, a member of Healthy Communities, a tobacco-control program, was not alarmed that the decision might start a domino-effect defeat of the smoking ban.

"It appears that the other (establishments) won't fit in as nicely as Justin's has," he said. "The guidelines (to define a bar) are clear."

Town may seek funds for new water treatment plant

Newly voiced concern adds $3 million to project list for 2003

By Rebecca Piro

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski says that the town should plan to spend $12.6 million on capital projects in fiscal year 2003.

That's the number he's recommended in the Capital Improvement Plan for fiscal years 2003 through 2007, a five-year projection of capital projects and financial estimates.

Officials have said they want to think conservatively for the next few years, as residents begin to pay the debts they have incurred with the major construction projects they approved two years ago. However, the fiscal 2003 estimate is still $1.9 million more than Stapczynski's CIP projection for the current fiscal year 2002.

None of the projects or estimates in the CIP are set in stone. Rather, it is a planning device by which officials can prioritize projects and plan for future costs. Town Meeting must approve each of the projects before they become part of the actual budget.

Stapczynski recommended $3.12 million for possible expansion of the town's water plant on Lowell Street. Public Works Director Jack Petkus recently told selectmen that Andover's plant would soon be unable to keep up with the water demands from town residents and from North Reading, to whom Andover sells water. Petkus is currently drafting a warrant article for water conservation for 2002 Town Meeting, but Stapczynski says the money should be put aside just in case.

Stapczynski wants to cushion the Cross Street schools' construction contingency with $350,000. When officials awarded the job to a contractor last year, the project was $347,000 over bid. Officials made up the difference by subtracting it from the schools' contingency fund, and now Stapczynski and Joe Piantadosi, plant and facilities director, want to put it back.

The town manager has also recommended adding $830,000 to the public safety center's contingency. The extra money is needed to cover fire department furnishings, the monopoly, upgrades to the telephone systems and purchase and installation of a security system.

Stapczynski wants to continue the town's plan to reconstruct existing sidewalks. For fiscal year 2003, he has recommended $376,000 for the reconstruction of sidewalks on Whittier Street. He wants to spend $826,000 on new sidewalks for Chandler and Greenwood roads, which will surround the new youth center in West Andover.

The Conservation Commission's coffers will be drained when it contributes $1.6 million to the town's total $3.6 million purchase of the Reichhold Chemical land, approved at April's Town Meeting. Stapczynski wants to replenish those funds for future land acquisition with $1.5 million.

Whether these and other projects are approved at 2002 Town Meeting will likely depend on the economy. The state still has not produced a budget for fiscal 2003, and until it does, Andover officials cannot gauge the revenues they will receive from the state, and in turn gauge the money the town can afford to spend on projects. Typically, between six and seven percent of Andover's revenues come from the state, says Stapczynski.

The town manager has not recommended any funds in the coming fiscal year for ball fields, a senior center or a community recreation center at Recreational Park — all items that have appeared in the CIP before.

Will Hall, proposed senior-center site, will be torn down building). We don't see any other options."

■ WILL HALL

The demolition is part of the school's master plan, which calls for tightening up the campus and eliminating "surplus" buildings. Will Hall is on the outskirts of PA's campus and 111 years have taken their toll on the building.

"It needs a lot of work. We've been making steady investments in the building to keep it in reasonable (shape)," says Williams.

But not everyone notices the chipped paint when they look at Will Hall. "It has a beautiful staircase and a fireplace with a lovely mantle. They're antiques in excellent condition," says Dorothy Bresnahan, chairwoman of the Council on Aging. "It needs fresh paint and a couple of windows. The town made one very big mistake in passing it up. It would have been a showcase — something the town pointed to with pride."

The $5.2 million that the Friends group was trying to raise included money to expand the building, as well as renovate it. But Williams says there's no denying that Will Hall needs lots of work — and the town knew it when selectmen signed the lease.

"If they can't pull it off, who can?" he says.

In that two-year effort to pull it off, seniors spent about $355,000 of town funds on the designs for the building. That money came out of a $500,000 seed money gift voters had set aside for a new senior center in 1997. Only $144,000 of that amount remains.

To prevent losing more money, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski isn't going to recommend any more public funds for the project until there is a solid plan in place. Jeanne Madden, director of Elder Services, requested $6 million for a new senior center in the town's Capital Improvement Plan, a five-year projection. In the plan, however, Stapczynski does not allocate any of that until at least fiscal year 2004.

"It doesn't make sense to recommend any dollars this year," agrees Selectman Brian Major. "If we did that, all we'd be doing is throwing money at a problem and not having a solution to back it up."

Stapczynski and Madden are currently sifting through names of volunteers willing to sit on a new committee for the senior center project. Members should be appointed to that committee by the end of November, and they will take the reins in the quest for a new center, says Major. Their research will likely include a review of the data previously collected by seniors, who had named Will Hall as their No. 1 site. He hopes they will consider the youth-center land — a plot in west Andover and the seniors' previous No. 2 site — as a place for a campus community center. By June the town should have a new, clear direction in which to go, Major says.

In the meantime, Phillips Academy officials will schedule a demolition date, photograph and catalog the historic items inside Will Hall for preservation purposes, buy some-grass seed for the location and move on.

But not everyone will let go of Will Hall so quickly. Madden, for one, will keep her picture of Will Hall in her office window.

"Why not?" she says. "It's a beautiful building."

p.m., a Sheridan Road resident reported that someone had put "dog defecation" inside her mailbox, and she did not think it was from her dog, according to the log.

Friday, Nov. 2 – At 3:12 p.m., a female reported that she had lost her keys on Stevens Street.

At 4:06 p.m., an employee from Converse Networking Co. on Federal Street reported receiving a suspicious package mailed from the United Arab Emirates, according to the log. A responding officer determined that there was nothing suspicious about the package.

At 6:31 p.m., police assisted the fire department with a report of a stove fire at a residence on Railroad Street. The police and fire fighters found no one home with eggs cooking on the stove, according to the log.

Saturday, Nov. 3 – At 2:10 a.m., an ambulance responded to Merrimack College for a report of an attempted suicide. EMTs found the woman had not made any attempt, but the school arranged for a counselor to come speak with her.

Sunday, Nov. 4 – At 5:53 p.m., a female driver struck an elderly male who was trying to cross North Main Street in front of McDonalds. The man was rushed to the hospital. No charges were pressed against the driver.

Tuesday, Nov. 6 – At 1:24 p.m., an employee from a company at Brickstone Square reported finding a white powder in a bag inside a men's bathroom. A responding officer believed that the incident was a prank, but could not investigate further as the powder was cleaned up before the officer arrived on the scene. The employee was to contact the police if he had any further information.

BREAKS

Friday, Nov. 2 – At 2:51 a.m., three males reported that their

IRS powder ruled hoax

FBI investigating, but releasing little

White powder that leaked out of an envelope at the IRS on Lowell Street last week is definitely not anthrax.

Gail Marcinkiewicz, an FBI special agent spokesperson out of Boston, confirmed Wednesday that the incident is considered a hoax. The FBI is investigating but will not release information regarding where the envelope was mailed from, or what the white powder actually was, she says.

Upon finding the powder last week, the fire department and a state hazardous-materials response team decontaminated two IRS employees at the scene and sent them to Lawrence General Hospital for observation. Those employees were sent home later that day, along with 10 other employees who were sent home to wash up. About 2,000 people are employed at the Lowell Street facility.

River Road apartment had been broken into. The men, who were intoxicated, did not want a report taken. Nothing had been stolen from the room.

THEFTS

Wednesday, Oct. 31 – At 5:15 p.m., an employee at Brooks Pharmacy reported that a woman stole about $150 worth of diapers from the store and fled in a blue vehicle with New Hampshire plates.

Thursday, Nov. 1 – At 12:18 p.m., a High Street resident came to the station to report that a pair of earrings, valued at $600, were stolen from her home.

At 1:51 p.m., an officer reported the theft of credit cards and money from a patron at a Haverhill Street business.

At 9:17 p.m., an employee from CVS reported that a male had stolen a large radio and a basket of items.

Sunday, Nov. 4 – At 9:49 a.m., an employee at the Wyndham Hotel reported a theft of money.

AUTO INCIDENTS

Wednesday, Oct. 31 – At 5:29 a.m., an employee from Atlantic Recovery reported repossessing a Mazda from Wildwood Road.

At 2:37 p.m., a Whittier Street resident reported that a tractor trailer had ripped down electrical wires that hung from his home while driving by.

Thursday, Nov. 1 – At 6:11 p.m., a driver reported that he had struck a deer on Dascomb Road.

Friday, Nov. 2 – At 6:02 p.m., a male reported that his car had been broken into while parked at the Andover Country Club.

Monday, Nov. 5 – At 4:03 p.m., a caller reported that her vehicle was broken into and some items taken while it was parked on Main Street.

Tuesday, Nov. 6 – At 2:39 p.m., Atlantic Recovery reported repossessing a Chevy Blazer from Haverhill Street.

ACCIDENTS

Monday, Nov. 5 – At 7:13 a.m., an officer reported an accident on Elm Street. No one was taken to the hospital, but one car was towed from the scene.

On MCAS: 'We are delivering'

Saturday school started for 45 sophomores who failed

By Neil Fater

As a group, Andover students taking the MCAS scored five to 15 percentage points higher than the state average in all five subject areas tested by the state. But with 45 of this year's Andover High School juniors having failed the test last year — a test they need to pass if they are to graduate — the school system is looking for ways to improve, and for ways to help these students.

"We've begun already with some programs for those students. We've begun a Saturday school," says Superintendent Claudia Bach.

The first session was this past weekend, run by math teacher Marcia Harol, who also worked with students over the summer.

Students who failed the MCAS will have four more chances to pass the test.

Of Andover's 391 sophomores last year, 346 passed. Another 18 will need to retake the math section, three must face the English test again, and 24 will have to retake and pass both sections to receive their diploma. These numbers include the 15 students who refused to take all or a portion of the MCAS test as a protest.

Though the school system says it can always improve, Marinel McGrath, assistant superintendent, has noted several areas where she sees Andover doing particularly well. She notes that 98 percent of third-grade students passed the reading portion of their test, and 97 percent of those in grades 4, 7, 8 and 10 passed the English portion of their tests.

But there are other areas where educators would like to see improvement.

"We are looking at our English high-school scores and feel that we wish those were better," says Bach. "We have fewer failures in the English, but we'd like to see more students in the advanced."

Only 17 percent of Andover's 10th-grade students were rated as advanced in English. More than twice that number of sophomores, 36 percent, were considered advanced in math.

"We always think we could do better than we've done, but I also think we (are doing) quite decently," says Bach.

"I do feel we are delivering," she says. "Our students would seem overall to do well."

McGrath plans to give her preliminary analysis of the scores at the Nov. 13 School Committee meeting. Each school principal will head a team that has until Dec. 7 to review and analyze the state reports for their schools. Schools will create plans to address the academic topics with which students seem to be having the most trouble.

System-wide, educators will be looking to spot schools where students seem to be performing significantly better or worse in a particular study area. "We look at that and we also try to discover why," says Bach. "Were they using certain strategies that maybe weren't institutionalized?"

Art teacher Daniela DeLuca holds a "stamp" created by her fifth-grade student Lisa Bourgeois. Such artwork will be on display at the Andover Post Office in honor of those involved with the events of Sept. 11.

Stamping out fear, students turn to art

By Neil Fater

The US Postal Service plans to release its "United We Stand" stamp soon to acknowledge the nation's feelings in the wake of Sept. 11. But if postal workers need more new stamp ideas, they can always turn to a group of fifth-graders at West Elementary School.

More than 20 students in teacher Nicole Brezinski's class spent two weeks in art class during September drawing stamps that depicted their feelings.

"The imagery is all very moving," says Daniela DeLuca, the art teacher who encouraged the project. Using colored pencils and black markers, students drew images including the World Trade Center towers, candles, hearts, crosses and the Statue of Liberty. DeLuca says the tone of the class was altered.

"I definitely felt that when they were working on this, the atmosphere was more reserved and quiet. I definitely felt there was catharsis," she says. "They got to say something — with words and pictures."

DeLuca said that one normally quiet boy who often has difficulty coming up with a subject quickly decided on his images and spoke at length about his drawing to a parent who was videotaping the work.

"I was surprised by how much they (the students) knew," she said. "I was surprised by what their words were."

Parents and community members will have a chance to see the artwork themselves tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 9 at 1 p.m. in the Andover Post Office at 22 Stevens St. Andover Postmaster Margaret Dimock plans to have a ceremony for the students, and will display the artwork near the post office boxes.

The state included the results of students who boycotted all or part of the MCAS test in the Andover totals. "The results for the Class of 2003 (including the scores for the 15 known 'protesters' who did not take the test but whose scores are factored into the results) are promising," wrote Marinel McGrath, assistant superintendent, in a memorandum.

Susan Kilpatrick Demoulas, of Partridge Hill Road, received the Bay Path College Civic Award from her alma mater Oct. 27 during reunion and homecoming.

The award is given by the undergraduate college for women in Longmeadow, Mass. to an alumna for outstanding service to the community.

Demoulas, a 1963 graduate and the mother of two daughters, has been active in the Girl Scouts at many levels, from Scout leader and neighborhood administrator of 50 troops with more than 400 girls, to a national Girl Scout leader-trainer for several years. For her contributions, she received the "thanks badge," the highest honor that an adult volunteer can attain in the Girl Scout organization.

Additionally, Demoulas has volunteered at her church, at the thrift shop, as a fundraiser, and as a soup kitchen cook and server. She also serves as class agent for her Bay Path class of 1963.

"Suze has not only been a model citizen for her hometown and her family, she has done much to help Bay Path reconnect with our alumni," said Dr. Carol A. Leary, Bay Path president. "Her life represents commitment, loyalty, and civic duty, and we are delighted to recognize those qualities with this award."

Katherine Abigail Mason, daughter of Martin K. Mason and the Rev. Virginia A. McDaniel of Andover, is currently serving the Brown University community through the Women's Peer Counselors Program for the 2001-02 academic year. Women peer counselors are undergraduates who reside in first-year residential halls, providing information and assistance to all unit members.

Mason is a first-semester sophomore at Brown.

Jason S. Der Ananian, son of Gail Der Ananian of Andover and the late Souran Der Ananian, completed his education at the University of Virginia, graduating with high distinction and receiving his BS in mechanical engineering.

His senior thesis was chosen as one of the top 18 undergraduate theses in the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences. He was selected to be a member of the Golden Key Honor Society, as well as the Pi Tau Sigma and Tau Beta Pi engineering honor societies. He is now employed with Simpson, Gumpertz & Heger (SGH), an engineering consulting company located in Arlington.

The Phillips Academy graduate was also captain of the Virginia water polo team. He is a past recipient of the Eagle-Tribune Scholarship award.

A total of 11 students from Andover are among the approximately 140,000 students included in the 24th annual edition of the National Dean's List, 2000-01.

Students are selected for this honor by their college deans, registrars or honor society advisors and must be in the upper 10 percent of their class, on their school's dean's list, or have earned a comparable honor. Listed students are eligible to compete for $50,000 in scholarship awards funded by the publisher, and may also use a referral service for future employment opportunities. More than 2,500 colleges and universities nationwide use the publication to recognize their academically qualified students.

Local students selected include: Terah Chan, University of Pennsylvania; Alexis Contos, Boston University; Laura Fitzgerald, Boston College; Michael L. Gaulin, UMass Lowell; Yeechin Karen Huang, Tufts University; Brian Jordan, University of Michigan at Ann Arbor; Matthew D. Konjoian, Brandeis University; Justin T. LeCam, Providence College; Tristan L. Marra, Ithaca College; Alyssa Saunders, Harvard University; and Alex Shkolnik, Carnegie Mellon University.

Susan A. Gurry Chamberlain, formerly of Andover, who now lives on Mount Vernon Street in Lawrence with her husband, Kevin, received her bachelor of arts degree in general studies from Franklin Pierce College in Salem, N.H. She has started her master's degree at the same college; her course of study is business leadership.

She has been a tax auditor for the Internal Revenue Service in Andover for the past six years, and has been in the US Naval Reserves in Newport, R.I., for 14 years, working as a dental hygienist.

"I also have my own flower business, Petal Pushers by Sue, which I began 10 years ago after completing my associate of science degree at Essex Agricultural Institute in Danvers," she says.

"My longtime goal is to work with John Walsh on America's Most Wanted, especially with missing and exploited children," she says.

Thirty-four students have been inducted into the UMass Lowell honors program, including Thomas Tanin of Andover, a junior in computer science.

Membership in the University's honors program requires incoming freshman to have achieved a combined score of at least 1200 on the SAT, and to have graduated in the top 15 percent of their high school class. Students currently enrolled must have achieved a minimum overall GPA of 3.25 or higher with at least 12 earned credits.

Students in the honors program enjoy individualized instruction in small groups, often in seminar format; opportunities for undergraduate research; notation of honors work on transcripts and diplomas; opportunity to live on one of the honors floors in the residence halls; and honors program social events.

'Laughing Through Our Tears'

Comedy night benefits families of Flights 11 & 77

By Rebecca Piro

Sometimes laughter is the best medicine. Nine comedians held to that saying last night, Wednesday, after Townsmen presstime, as they prepared to perform a show entitled "Laughing Through Our Tears" at the Grill 93's Comedy Palace. Proceeds will benefit the families of flight attendants who died on American Airlines Flights 11 and 77 in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

"I was hoping we could raise money for a good cause," says Jim McCue, comedian and Boston Comedy Festival producer.

The show was scheduled to feature comics Tony V., Jackie "The Joke Man" Martling, Paul D'Angelo, Patty Ross, Joe Yannetty, Julie Barr, Joey Carroll, and Jack Lynch, as well as McCue. All the comics donated their time.

"Everybody is working for free," says McCue.

The Comedy Palace required a minimum donation of $20 to get into the show. One hundred percent of the admission donations will go to The Flight 11 and 77 Memorial Fund.

McCue's girlfriend is a flight attendant for American Airlines who knew, among several others, Andover's Betty Ong. Ong, also a flight

A spicy Taste of India

Proceeds go to Chinmaya Indian Mission project

By Rebecca Piro

More than 500 people savored Indian cuisine at Sunday's Taste of India, held at the Ramada Rolling Green.

The event, the first of its kind in Andover, was an overwhelming success, says resident Gopala Dwarakanath. For $50 per ticket, people could sample table after table of Southern and Central Indian food. All proceeds, estimated at $60,000, went toward construction of the new Hindu worship and education center, headquarters for the Chinmaya Indian Mission

Boston project, sited at 1 Union St., Andover.

Members of the Chinmaya Mission held a ceremonial groundbreaking in May, but the actual start of the project was scheduled to happen in September, says Dwarakanath. After the terrorist attack on Sept. 11, members decided it would be best to wait.

"It really devastated us. We were in no mood to start the project," Dwarakanath says.

Private donors have already raised $2.75 million of the project's $4.5 million total cost since fundraising began last spring. Another fundraising event will take place in the spring, while a $100-per-ticket raffle is already underway. Only 4,000 tickets are available with 50 prizes to be won. The top prize is a new Lexus, followed by time-share vacations in Aruba and Williamsburg, Va. The winning raffle ticket will be pulled at next year's Taste of India, says Dwarakanath.

"The prizes are valued at no less than $300," he says. "The odds are really good for winning." To purchase a raffle ticket, people can call toll-free at 1-866-RAMDOOT or 474-4114.

Evening of 'Laughing Through Our Tears' attendant, was a North Main Street resident.

"They all flew together," says McCue.

While laughing may still be hard for some families of victims, McCue says his show is meant to be only positive, not offensive. Laughter is his way to express that.

"I just happen to be a comedian," he says. "If I was a songwriter, I guess I would do that. I think the comedians will be sensitive to the situation."

McCue has performed several times at Grill 93, which is why he approached general manager Ronnie Sava with the idea for a fundraiser.

Sava was receptive to the idea and helped to organize and advertise the event, McCue says.

"We do a lot of fundraisers for all different causes," says Sava. "They needed a large place that would hold a lot of people. I thought it was a great idea. Nobody's done anything in this area for the flight attendants, (so) we decided to get involved."

The comedians were considering scheduling more shows for the future, depending on the turnout.

One pilot and his family were scheduled to fly from Texas to attend the show, says McCue.

SOCIAL NOTEBOOK

South Winds Nov. 10 service has guest speaker Dr. Timothy Johnson

Dr. Timothy Johnson, who has achieved distinction as one of the nation's leading medical communicators of health-care information, as the medical editor on ABC News and Good Morning America, will be the featured guest speaker at the 5 p.m. Nov. 10 South Winds service at South Church in Andover.

Dr. Timothy Johnson

Dr. Johnson will be speaking on the topic of his new book, Why I Believe In God, and exploration of the issues surrounding science and religion.

In addition to his commentary on Good Morning America, Dr. Johnson provides on-air analysis of medical news for World News Tonight, Nightline and 20/20. He consults with ABC News in general regarding coverage of medical news.

He is the co-editor of the book Your Good Health, as well as co-author of the book, Let's Talk, along with Dr. C. Everett Koop.

Originally headed for the ministry, Dr. Johnson graduated from the North Park Seminary in 1963 and two years later entered medical school. In addition to his work with ABC he serves as assisting minister of the Community Covenant Church in West Peabody.

Cancer Support Group meeting

Women's Cancer Support Group (formerly the Breast Cancer Support Group) will meet Monday, Nov. 12 at 7 p.m. in the Meeting Room at Christ Church, Central Street. "Significant others" are included.

For more information, contact Margot Bixby at 978-475-5094.

Susan O'Neill

Local author to read from her Vietnam short stories

Andover author Susan O'Neill reads from her book, Don't Mean Nothing, Short Stories of Vietnam, Friday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Andover Bookstore, 89 Main St. According to Publishers Weekly, "Former army nurse O'Neill's debut story collection captures the physical and psychological tensions of her 13-month tour of duty in Vietnam with refreshing maturity and a profound sense of compassion."

Call 800-491-0143 for details.

Phillips Academy invites community to Veterans Day service

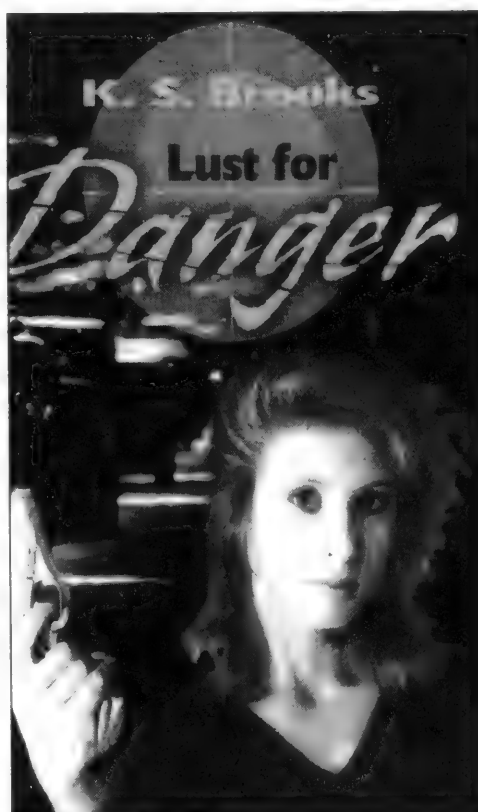

Phillips Academy invites the entire community to a Veterans Day service at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, at the Memorial Bell Tower, corner of Main and Salem streets. Musical performances will include a student brass group; Fidelio, the student a cappella singing group; John Simeone, a senior from Stony Point, N.Y., on bagpipes; and Bobby Edwards, dean of community and multicultural development, soloist. Chris Joel, class of '88 and director of telecommunications, will offer a reflection as a veteran of the Gulf War. Members of the community will offer readings and prayers from many traditions.

In the first novel (above) by former Andover resident Kat Brooks (above right), any resemblance of Agent Kathrin Night to any real persons, living or dead, is purely coincidental. "I think she's better than Bond, I really do," she says.

Author's 'Lust for Danger'

By Adam Groff

This may not seem like the most auspicious time to be writing novels about terrorists blowing up buildings and assassinating people; but on the other hand, maybe it is, if the evildoers are ultimately foiled by a super-cop named Agent Night. Anyway, Kat Brooks has been working up to this for years, and she seems likely to run with it.

Brooks had her first full-length novel, a crime thriller called Lust for Danger, published by iUniverse at the end of the summer. The 1981 Andover High graduate recently moved from Dracut to Easton, Md., on the Chesapeake Bay, to focus on her writing, and specifically on Agent Night.

"Right now, I'm thinking of a series of seven," says Brooks, never short on ambition. "Originally what I wanted to do was, I thought the James Bond movies were so totally ridiculous, I wanted to do a satire on them. Then when I started, I created my own character, and now I think she's better than Bond, I really do."

"She" is, in full, Agent Kathrin Night. By the way, it's Kathryn Brooks (pen name K.S. Brooks). Of course, any resemblance of Agent Night to any real persons, living or dead, is purely coincidental.

"I'm hugely into believability," says Brooks. "I do a lot of research, that's something I take pride in. I've done research on everything imaginable. And a lot of the stunts that are in the book, I've done myself. There's a scene in the book where Agent Night is tied to a post in a river, and the water is over her head. To try to experience that, I filled my sink and held my head under water for as long as possible. It was incredibly painful."

Brooks has also made several trips to Exeter, N.H., home of Sig Arms. There, she has had the instructors show her how to handle and shoot a variety of guns, and Agent Night now carries a Sig P230, a 9 mm.

As Night's adventures will span the globe, Brooks has spent a lot of time with books and videos about various countries. "I have this innate desire to teach," she says. "I want someone to be able to walk away from my books feeling like they know more about, say, Ethiopia, or what to do if a bomb blows up next to you."

Brooks says that, for her, one of the most sobering things about the Sept. 11 attacks was how much worse they and their effects were than the things that happen in her book. The group of criminals in her book, she says, "are part of a group that is kind of headed up by one person, this guy who just kind of got off track with trying to do something good. He decided that following the rules wasn't going to get it done."

And what drives Agent Night? Brooks is coy. "I'm trying to orchestrate it so that you find out a little more in each book about why she does it, what happened to her to make her dedicate her life to justice and eradicating terrorism," she says.

Brooks says she heard about iUniverse, an Internet publisher, through a friend, and she went that route after meeting with frustration at regular publishers.

"They want someone who's going to compete with Tom Clancy, and I don't, and I don't want to," says Brooks, who works the three jobs necessary to qualify her as a struggling writer. "I want to develop my own style. You'd think that would be a good thing, but to agents, it's not, because they don't know if there's a market for it."

To create a market for Lust for Danger, order it from an online bookstore such as Amazon.com or Borders.com, or from Brooks's own Web site at <www.ksbrooks.com>.

Sold-out auction rakes in $75,000 for new youth center

ON THE SCENE

Judy Wakefield

Wow! IT WAS A PARTY WEEKEND for Andover that brought out more than 700 people over two nights to Andover Country Club.

No one knew what kind of party mood Andover residents would be in, as the Sept. 11 terrorist tragedy still looms large. But, the common cause at the fundraisers for the new youth center and again at the next night's Andona Society ball was summed up in these five words: It's All About the Kids.

Partygoers kicked up their heels and opened their wallets for programs that benefit the kids of Andover at both events.

Who wasn't there is a better question than who was at "Raising the Roof," the Friday night auction benefit for the town's soon-to-be-built Yvon Cormier Family Youth Center.

The sold-out event attracted 430 people and could have easily had 500 people if space allowed it. In fact, people were turned away at the door because they didn't have tickets.

Auction co-chair Sheila Stone honors Bill Fahey of Youth Services with a plaque.

Sponsored by the Andover Youth Foundation, the event featured loads of auction items with 27 of them tagged for the live portion because of their potential to bring in some big bucks. Most of those items did not disappoint. Some $75,000 was raised during the three-and-half-hours of auction time.

The auction item to bring in the most money was a last-minute donation by Bernie Moreno of Andover who works with Herb Chambers/Flagship Motors. His spontaneous donation of a trip to Germany that includes a tour of the Mercedes Benz dealership, brought in $9,000. Carole Chanler of Andover, who is very active with youth services in town, was the bidder.

Also unexpected was the $3,000 donation made by the Andover Service Club. Member Brad Heim of Andover said his group runs a mentor program for 90 Andover High kids and the group was pleased to be part of the new youth center's building campaign.

Here's a closer look at some of the auction items that brought in big dollars:

Tom Jones of Andover, who heads the youth center fundraising effort, donated a week's stay at his home on Newfound Lake. That went for $2,250. An obvious diehard Celtics fan paid $3,000 for a piece of the parquet floor at the former Boston Garden, while three framed pictures of former Bruins and Colorado Avalanche star Ray Bourque also brought in $3,000.

The trip to see a taping of Jay Leno's Tonight Show, including airfare, went for $1,200 – and speaking of air, that famed photograph of the airborne Bobby Orr after he scored the Bruins' Stanley Cup-winning goal, fetched $700.

The auction also proved that Andoverites definitely like to be pampered for dinner, and they are willing to pay big bucks for it.

Terry Russo of Andover, known around town for her sensational Italian cooking, donated a multiple-course homemade Italian dinner for eight served in the high bidder's home. Russo brings everything needed, (even the tablecloth!), and cooks the meal. Her daughter, Amy Russo, waitresses. There was a bidding war for this item until Terry waved to auctioneer Michael Harkins, and offered to donate two of these evenings. Two bidders each paid $1,200 for this item.

Andona's 49th ball is one of its best-attended

A few weeks before the Andona Society's ball, group president Lisa McDonald was worried about the lagging ticket sales.

The terrorist tragedy, a worsening economy and its presence on the social calendar the night after the Andover Youth Foundation's big fundraiser had ball organizers worried that residents were not as ready for the annual black-tie affair, held just before the holidays, as they have been in the past.

But by the week before the popular event, which was held last Saturday night at Andover Country Club, tickets were selling like hotcakes. By the time the doors opened, 340 tickets had been sold, pushing this year's ball close to the top of the best-attended list. McDonald said this year's event had the second-highest attendance in the 49-year history of the Andona ball.

"I think people are looking to get out," said McDonald, who wore an open-backed gown as she surveyed the crowd. "And all of the money raised is for the kids of Andover. That is a good reason to come."

Many attendees had been to the Andover Youth Foundation's party the night before (also held at Andover Country Club) but were happy to dress up a bit more and pay $75 for a ticket. They enjoyed dancing to the Artie Barsamian wingtet while celebrating this year's ball theme "Golden Glitz."

Andona is an Andover institution that will celebrate its 50th year next year. Some 208 local women are members who pledge to run events to benefit Andover kids. Andona dollars go toward numerous programs including scholarships, camperships that cover summer-camp tuition, and a swim program for handicapped kids. In addition, Andona has donated $30,000 to the new youth center, so far.

Andona's biggest fundraiser is its annual Clown Town event. The ball is also a money-maker and raised $10,000 this year.

Several couples said they were happy to contribute to the good cause.

First-year Andona member Deborah Gray of Andover was there with her husband, Charlie Gray. This mother of two daughters said she joined as a way get more involved "civically."

The Grays attended with Denise Bordonaro and her husband, Dave Johst, also of Andover. "My boys didn't recognize me," laughed the elegantly-dressed Bordonaro, also a first-year member and the mother of three sons. They gave her a baseball glove for Mother's Day last year and are not used to seeing her so finely attired.

While black was the color of choice for most women, a glamorous Bettina Indaco of Andover chose a delicate gold gown in honor of Andona's golden-glitz theme. Her husband, George Indaco, wore a gold bow tie to match.

"I think Andona is a wonderful organization to be involved with," said Bettina Indaco, a first-year member. "I am very satisfied to be involved with this great group. They do so much."

Hazel and Steve Scott are new to Andover. They hail from Scotland and it showed. He was dressed in a kilt while her stunning red gown matched perfectly. "This is how we dress for balls in Scotland," explained Steve Scott when asked about his attire.

Arlene Latsey and Susan Ingram, both of Andover, headed this year's ball committee, which included eight local women.

Pianist Elizabeth Kinsman, 17, provided the music during the cocktail hour. Dinner choices included chicken Avignon stuffed with mushrooms or sliced tenderloin of beef.

at Andover Country Club in the summer, a Patriots game in the fall, skiing at Cannon Mountain and a two-night summer stay in York, Maine, brought in $1,300. This item was donated by Beth and Jim Arnold of Andover, longtime supporters of a youth center.

Andover developer Yvon Cormier and his wife, Noella, have already pledged $1.5 million for the new youth center, which will be named after them. But they had more to give Friday. He bid $500 to play a round of golf at Andover Country Club. He owns the club and can most likely play golf whenever he wants. But in the spirit of truly good sportsmanship, he forked over $500 when this power-packed caddie-foursome was announced: Police Chief Brian Pattullo, Fire Chief Chuck Murnane, Selectmen Chairman Ted Teichert, and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski.

Speaking of Teichert, he was the disc jockey at the party, bringing lots of experience. He moonlights as a disc jockey, a job he started back in his Andover High days. He worked for free Friday night. That was his donation to the cause.

"This is a wonderful group of diverse people," said auction co-chair Sheila Stone of Andover as she sized up the crowd, wearing a greenish-blue sequin dress with matching shoes. "I wore this so when someone says 'Where's Sheila?' they will know."

She did indeed stand out as most partygoers dressed somewhat casually to match the very affordable $40-per-person ticket price, which included dinner.

"We could have gone higher with that price," Stone said, "but we really didn't want to turn people away with a high ticket price."

Meanwhile, the pony-tailed Bill Fahey, who is director of Andover Youth Services and will be in charge of the new youth center, sized up his take on the event with this word: "overwhelmed."

He was honored with a standing ovation when he accepted a plaque that was full of complimentary words to describe him, such as caring, compassionate, magical, and advocate for kids. Those descriptions were provided by some of the more than 2,500 middle- and high-schoolers who currently benefit from his department's numerous programs.

His appearance at the microphone quieted the crowd. But he simply thanked everyone and promised to throw an even bigger party when the youth center opens. "And you are all invited," he said, before retreating to his table, where he sat with several Andover Youth Services employees.

Dressed in a borrowed tie and noting that he used to own a suit but can't remember which cleaners he brought it to last year, he called the event awesome and said he was thrilled to be associated with a town that is committed to a youth center.

"This is just overwhelming," he said. "I can't believe all the people that turned out."

The $75,000 raised will be added to the ever-growing building account for the new youth center, which will be built in West Andover on six acres of land bounded by Chandler and Greenwood roads.

More than one-third of the $4.2 million needed to build the 30,000-square-foot center has been raised, so far. Construction is slated to start in June 2003.

■ VETERANS DAY SERVICE AT PHILLIPS

"Every year, the PA community gathers for a short service at the Memorial Bell Tower to honor veterans of our nation's wars," says Michael J. Ebner, chaplain. "This year, the event takes on new significance after the World Trade Center and Pentagon attacks and as US military forces react in Afghanistan."

Temba Maqubela, chemistry instructor, and Leon Modeste, athletics instructor, will offer words of remembrance for Stacey Sanders, class of '94, and Todd Isaacs, class of '90, who lost their lives in the World Trade Center attack. Everyone will have the opportunity to offer names of family and friends lost in the tragedy, as well as names of those serving in the military. The service will conclude with a call to silence as Barbara Landis Chase, head of school, and students lay a wreath at the foot of the Memorial Bell Tower.

Talk turkey at Memorial Hall Library

The Massachusetts Wildlife Federation will present a free illustrated program on "The Wild Turkey in Massachusetts" with wildlife biologist James E. Cardoza of MassWildlife on Tuesday, Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. The program will be held at Memorial Hall Library.

Wild turkeys were common in the Massachusetts woods at the time of the first European settlement but, as settlers cleared the land, these birds – which were so esteemed by Ben Franklin that he proposed them as the national bird – were eliminated from the Commonwealth. By 1850 turkeys were part of Massachusetts' history.

In 1972 the Division of Fisheries & Wildlife (MassWildlife) initiated a program that has restored turkeys to the Commonwealth. Today they are abundant and even visit suburban backyards.

Cardoza is the biologist who led Mass-

Wildlife's restoration project and who monitors what he calls "these spectacular birds."

For more information, contact Paul Kress at 978-369-3118; or Ellie Horwitz at 508-792-7270.

A sure sign that winter is coming

Public walking will start inside the Andover High School field house on Monday, Nov. 26 and will run through March 15.

The hours for walking are as follows:

Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings, 6:15-7:15 a.m.

Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, 8:30-9:30 p.m.

During school vacations, the track will be closed to the public. Parking is behind the field house in the morning and evening.

IN BRIEF

Salvesen awarded

To recognize "superior efforts in helping a client recover financial losses resulting from the misuse of funds by an attorney," Attorney Douglas W. Salvesen of Andover was recently presented the fourth annual Clients' Security Board's William J. LeDoux Award by Supreme Judicial Court Justice Martha B. Sosman.

Salvesen, of the Boston law firm of Yurko & Perry, was selected as this year's award recipient for having successfully represented two claimants before the board, each of whom had filed a claim alleging theft of funds by the same attorney. In representing his clients, Salvesen provided evidence demonstrating that the late attorney, who had been disbarred in 1998, had withdrawn funds he held in trust for these clients and used them for his own purposes. Salvesen obtained judgments on behalf of both clients, but an investigation revealed that the attorney had no assets with which to pay the judgments. Salvesen advised his clients to file applications for reimbursement with the board. In July 2001, the board awarded $84,000 to one, and $40,000 to the second.

A graduate of Boston University School of Law and Yale University, Salvesen is chairman of the board of directors of Massachusetts Correctional Legal Services Inc. and an instructor in the Harvard Trial Advocacy Program.

Weisblatt is medical director

Harvard Pilgrim Health Care has appointed Andover resident Rick Weisblatt as a medical director responsible for overseeing all aspects of behavioral health and pharmacy for the plan and its 765,000 members.

Weisblatt most recently served as Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates' vice president of operations, and was responsible for its pharmacy program and the operation of seven health centers. He also served as Harvard Vanguard's chief of mental health and as medical director of two multi-specialty group practices.

He has a doctorate and bachelor's degree from University of Maryland.

Vicor does not lay off workers – but not for altruistic reasons

By Adam Groff

The slowly but steadily souring economy has been felt in the Merrimack Valley during the past year, particularly by employees who have lost their jobs. However, one Andover company that has never laid off a worker is Vicor Corp.

Headquartered off Dascomb Road in West Andover, Vicor is a developer and manufacturer of power supply systems for large equipment manufacturers. It trades on the NASDAQ. In October, Vicor announced a cost-reduction plan that does not include layoffs, and billed this plan as "consistent with its corporate culture." However, the decision to retain all of its employees is not consistent with decisions made by some other Merrimack Valley companies this year. In fact, it seems to go against conventional wisdom.

Around the region

Lucent Technologies, for instance, has planned to close its North Andover plant. Although it started the year with about 5,500 employees, the plant will have closer to 2,800 by the end of the year, and even those workers appear to face an uncertain future.

CMGI, Andover's NASDAQ Wunderkind, took a spectacular nosedive this year, forcing it to sell or dismantle most of the 49 companies it controlled wholly or in part. One of its remaining Internet marketing concerns, the Andover-based Engage, slashed its 500-strong work force almost in half a few months ago.

Even weapons maker Raytheon cut about 100 Andover employees earlier this year, although the company is currently hiring engineers.

For publicly held companies like Lucent, CMGI and Raytheon, shareholder pressure can be great to do whatever is necessary to prop up the price of shares when the price starts to slide. Trimming the payroll is one sure way to cut costs.

It is not a way that Vicor pursues, however. In fact, Vicor, has not had a layoff in its 20-year history.

Why?

No layoffs

The creator of Vicor's corporate culture, founder and president Patrizio Vinciarelli, does not claim altruistic motives for his no-layoff policy.

"It's a philosophy based on the self-serving considerations of a company that aims to grow and continue to be profitable," says Vinciarelli, in his prominent Italian accent. "We look at employees as the primary value in the company – it's difficult to get good employees."

According to Vinciarelli, who taught physics at Princeton University before starting Vicor, a company that can Vicor's founder says good workers are too hard to find, so the company policy is to retain them and pursue pay cuts or other cost savings.

weather hard times while keeping a seasoned staff in place is in a much better position when the business cycle takes its inevitable turn for the better.

"I would think it's the worst possible mistake to deal with the challenge (of a downturn) opportunistically, by just cutting off the work force," he says. Companies often do this, he noted, because, "Paradoxically, the financial community responds to that. Companies increase the price of their stock by taking these short-term, opportunistic steps."

Instead of layoffs, Vicor's cost-reduction plan includes reduced hours for hourly employees, mandatory use of accrued personal time by salaried employees, and, notably, a 10-percent pay cut for senior staff, meaning Vinciarelli and his six vice presidents.

"I would think it's the worst possible mistake to deal with the challenge opportunistically, by just cutting off the workforce."

PATRIZIO VINCIARELLI, FOUNDER AND PRESIDENT OF VICOR

"We like to think of the long-term value of the company, and not the decisions that the financial community thinks we should make," says Vinciarelli. "Long-term value is what ultimately drives the price of a stock up."

Vicor shares finished the day last Tuesday at $16.21, down from $54.75 a year ago, although that does not make Vicor unusual these days: Lucent is down by a similar percentage, and CMGI is down by a whole lot more.

While he believes Vicor is in "a significant minority" in avoiding layoffs as a matter of principle, Vinciarelli says, "I want to emphasize that I don't think we're wrong in doing this. There are other examples of companies that take this approach."

True enough: in April, Agilent Technologies announced it was cutting pay for all its 48,000 employees by 10 percent in an effort to avoid layoffs. In August, most of Andover's 2,000 Agilent employees became part of Royal Philips Electronics when Philips acquired Agilent's Healthcare Solutions Group, making it part of Philips Medical Systems. PMS spokeswoman Heidi Wilson said the company continues to control costs through low-impact measures like restricting employee travel and mandating longer holidays.

Vinciarelli says for some companies, the pressure to lay off is "to some degree self-imposed," and he believes that Vicor shareholders understand his approach.

"I think we have a shareholder base that is savvy and understands that we have a much different perspective," he says.

Furthermore, beyond affecting the company and its employees, Vinciarelli points out that layoffs have significant ripple effects in the larger economy, strengthening the argument against what he calls "knee-jerk reactions."

"It's a snowball effect," he says. "I was hearing this morning driving in that sales of new homes have fallen 30 percent. If, in an economic slowdown, companies react to it by laying off workers, those workers aren't going to be buying homes. People get more cautious, and they do not do what they would ordinarily do. The economy is very much of a nonlinear system – it tends to reinforce trends that develop in one direction or another."

Professional Profile

Donald P. MacGillivray, L.I.C.S.W.

Donald MacGillivray, licensed independent clinical social worker, has been providing counseling for couples, both together and individually, for over 30 years. One of the issues that brings couples to his office is the stress that can occur after the birth of a baby. Stress is defined as facing a challenge alone, without support.

Mr. MacGillivray suggests that a dramatic shift takes place in the dynamics of a marriage when a baby enters the picture. There is a break in intimacy between husband and wife who, as the primary caretaker, becomes attached to the baby, while the father has far fewer opportunities to learn about their child. This upsets the balance in the relationship because decision making is now based on the mother's expertise and experience. The mother experiences great responsibility (stress), continually expresses suggestions, i.e. "don't hold him that way", etc., may not trust that the other will do it right, finds it "easier" to do it herself which increases resentment and stress. Father might feel extraneous, a responder rather than initiator, and somewhat unimportant.

He notes that when arguments occur it is important to remember that each parent has something unique to bring to the child. Be aware of this and respect each other's different approaches. To avoid struggles in decision making, the wife needs to learn how to share information with her husband in ways that can be comfortably received. He may need to make opportunities for discovering and creating his own relationship. As he learns about his child's personality he can develop approaches to parenting that work for him.

Mr. MacGillivray counsels, "Don't be thrown by these changes. Stay with the basic respect that you have for each other and for yourselves, and there is no reason for your relationship to be threatened."

In addition to marital counseling, Donald MacGillivray also works with clients individually and in other relationships, including sibling and parent-child.

Mr. MacGillivray's office is located at 10 High Street, Andover. He sees clients on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Telephone (978) 470-1555.

Swimmers perfect again; soccer teams score

Field hockey, boys soccer win, then exit tournaments after losses

By Rick Harrison

Reigning state champions Connie Brown, Sally Brown and Holly Boucher each won two events, while one meter diver Kristin Elmore also remained undefeated, as the Andover High girls swim & dive team completed another perfect Merrimack Valley Conference season with a resounding first-place finish in the MVC Division 1 Championship Meet.

Meanwhile, the AHS girls varsity soccer team opened play in the MIAA Tournament with a pair of wins.

Boys soccer also picked up two tourney victories (one by forfeit), before being eliminated by St. John's Prep of Danvers in a quarterfinal round game on Tuesday afternoon.

The Lady Warriors' field hockey team registered a win before its season came to a premature close with a tough 1-0 loss to Danvers.

GIRLS SWIM & DIVE

The Lady Warriors, 13-0 in dual meets this fall and winners of 37 straight, piled up a whopping 601 points to lap the MVC Division 1 field and easily out-distance runner-up Chelmsford which had 389 points.

Rounding out the five teams were Haverhill (189.5 points), Lowell (114) and Nashua, N.H. (83.5).

"We had a lot of best times from kids whose true championship meet was today — because they won't get to swim in the Sectional or State Meet," said AHS head coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. "It was great to see those girls excel."

In addition to placing first in 10 of the 12 events, which included sweeping the three relays, the locals also finished 1-2-3 in the 200-yard freestyle, 200 IM and 500 free.

The two-day competition was held at the Lowell High Riddick Memorial Field House pool (diving, 500 free) and Haverhill High's Charles White Natatorium.

Schedule

Andover shoots for its third straight Division 1 North Sectional title this Saturday at Haverhill High.

"I probably won't sleep for two nights trying to make out the lineup for Sectionals," said coach Fitzgerald after the MVCs. "It's important to get as many kids into the meet as possible — and put them in events they like and where they will have the most impact."

The season-ending All-State Meet, with Andover shooting for a third straight title, is Sunday, Nov. 18 at Wellesley College.

The Lady Warriors are a prohibitive favorite to win both meets, but other teams expected to do well are Belmont, Chelmsford, Acton-Boxboro and Duxbury.

MVC Championship Meet

Junior Connie Brown was virtually unchallenged in two individual events, winning the 200 free by almost eight seconds in 1:53.20 and the 100 butterfly by more than five seconds in 57.36.

She was the only swimmer to break two minutes in the former race, and the only one to crack the one minute barrier in the latter.

Capt. Sally Brown also dominated, capturing the 200 IM by more than three seconds (2:09.75) and the 500 free by six seconds (5:06.15).

Holly Boucher won the 100 breaststroke by almost three seconds (1:08.68), while in the 100 free her 54.10 was a shade faster than runner-up Sarah Braunschweiger of Chelmsford (54.37).

Connie Brown was joined by Liz Mancuso, Amy Caron and Erica Douvadjian on the victorious 200 medley relay (1:55.01), and she also anchored the first-place 400 free relay that also featured sister Sally, Lauren Harlow and Holly Hinds (3:43.05).

Sally Brown anchored the first-place 200 free relay that also featured Boucher, Mancuso and Douvadjian (1:42.30).

"The most exciting part of the whole meet may have been in the diving, when Kristin (Elmore) had to come from behind on her final dive to take first place," said Fitzgerald.

"Her last dive had a 1.6 DD (degree of difficulty) and she executed it perfectly."

Registering all 8 and 9 scores from the judges, Elmore finished with 248.40 points for first place.

Chelmsford swimmers won the other two races, Braunschweiger with a 25.22 clocking in the 50 free and Meghan O'Connell 1:01.66 in the 100 backstroke.

Placing 2-3 in the 200 free were Caitlin Geary (2:01.04) and Caitlin Hamer (2:02.77).

Lauren Harlow was second (2:13.00) and Holly Hinds third (2:15.06) in the 200 IM, and in the 500 free Geary was again runner-up (5:12.19) and Hamer third (5:25.35).

Other AHS seconds went to Mancuso (50 free, 25.63), Lauren Harlow (100 fly, 1:02.66), and the 200 medley relay quartet of Lauren Harlow, Boucher, Hinds and Carolyn Cody (1:57.48).

Also finishing third for the champs were Cody (100 free, 58.61), Diana Harlow (100 backstroke, 1:03.14), Hinds (100 breast, 1:11.53) and the 200 free relay of Hamer, Liz Pallotta, Geary and Cody (1:48.25).

Five other AHS divers scored points by placing in the top 12.

Lithe Becky Hass was fourth with 198.55 points, Bahaar Massihzadegan fifth (188.90 points), Anne Marie Cashman sixth (180.60 points), Libby Fortier 10th (161.90 points) and

After a scoreless first half, top goalscorer Chris Brouillard (No. 22) booted the eventual winning goal against Malden Catholic 8 minutes into the second half. Andover won, 2-0.

Mairen Neri 12th (158.25 points).

"All four senior divers (Elmore, Hass, Massihzadegan, Neri) finished in the top 12 and that was nice to see," said Fitzgerald in praise of diving coaches Mary Schissel and Andy Pallotta.

Amy Caron was fourth in the 100 breast (1:11.58), and the 400 free relay 'B' squad of Hamer, Edie Muller, Diana Harlow and Geary touched fourth (4:00.54).

Posting fifths were Diana Harlow (200 IM, 2:18.02), Mancuso (100 fly, 1:04.53), Ellie Browne (500 free, state-cut 5:37.62) and Dana Medaglio (100 breast, 1:14.67).

Settling in sixth place were Jackie Leahy (200 free, 2:08.54), Caron (200 IM, 2:18.35), Douvadjian (50 free, 27.03), Christina Casey (100 fly, 1:05.87) and Muller (100 free, 1:00.29).

Jamie Kapelson was seventh (2:09.96) and Browne eighth (personal-best 2:10.67) in the 200 free.

Cody swam to eighth place (2:22.82), Casey 10th (2:27.21) and Muller 11th (2:28.37) in the 200 IM.

Pallotta (eighth, 27.76) and Phoungnhu Nguyen (10th, personal-best 27.79) also scored in the 50 free.

Adding points in the 100 fly were Monika Eghbalian (eighth, 1:05.97), Leahy (ninth, 1:07.53) and Pallotta (10th, 1:07.58).

Kapelson was seventh in the 500 free (5:43.09) as the Lady Warriors dominated that race with five of the top seven places.

Douvadjian (11th, 1:08.86) and Matia Kostakis (12th, 1:09.18) completed the scorers in the 100 back, while Eghbalian was 10th in the 100 breast (1:17.55).

BOYS SOCCER

The Andover High boys soccer team, seeded 16th in a 19-team field, began its MIAA Division 1 North Tournament run with a 2-0 whitewash of Malden Catholic in the preliminary round.

The locals then jumped past the first round with a 1-0 forfeit win over top seed East Boston. The Jets had to bow out of the tourney because they used an ineligible (fifth-year) player on the way to a 10-0-3 record.

The AHS season came to a close in the quarterfinals on Tuesday, as St. John's Prep raced to a lopsided 7-1 victory over the Golden Warriors.

AHS ended the season with an 11-7-3 overall record.

"We had our ups and downs this fall," said coach Dave Amundsen. "We had high expectations and started off strong (6-2-2 after 10 games).

"Then we hit a few bumps in the road. We were getting too many (yellow and red) cards for a period of six or seven games.

"At the end of the season we just started playing the game again — without worrying about officials' calls or any other distractions. And we played much better soccer after that until the final game.

"It was tough to see St. John's dominate us like they did. It's not the way we wanted the season to end.

"We played excellent defense all year," continued Amundsen, "but we struggled to score goals.

The Golden Warriors did finish with 39 goals in 20 games, but 18 of them came in three wins over Haverhill (7-1), Lawrence (6-0) and Chelmsford (5-0).

That left only 21 goals in the other 17 games, just over one per outing, as the locals were shut out four times and held to one goal in nine other games (including four 1-0 victories).

Andover will be hit hard by graduation, losing 13 seniors including 11 who started or played a lot of minutes.

But, since an unusually high number of 27 players were kept on the varsity roster, the Golden Warriors also have 14 underclassmen eligible to return.

"I don't think I'll ever carry 27 players again," said Amundsen. "It's too many. But we will have several good prospects returning next year."

MIAA TOURNAMENT

PRELIMINARY ROUND

Andover 2

Malden Catholic 0

Second-half goals by top goalscorer Chris Brouillard and All-Conference choice Matt Bengston lifted the Golden Warriors to victory at Lovely Field.

It was the first-ever meeting between the two schools in boys soccer.

After a scoreless first half, Brouillard notched the eventual winning goal eight minutes into the second half with a fine setup by Capt. Mike Grieco.

"It was a beautiful pass by Grieco," said coach Amundsen. "Brouillard was set up behind the keeper at the far post and he headed the ball into the net. It was our first head goal of the season."

Bengston provided the insurance with eight minutes to play on a direct kick, the ball skirting the defensive wall and nestling just inside the post.

"There was not a tremendous amount of difference between the two teams," said Amundsen. "In the first half we were feeling each other out. We started getting to the ball quicker in the second half. It created many more chances and we began to dominate play."

"Our defense played very well. We shut Malden Catholic down for the most part. Rob Lakow did an excellent job marking Tano Meola who was the top scorer in the Catholic Conference."

"They had six shots on net and none were really challenging," added Amundsen. "Their best bid came when it was still 0-0. Their player was alone in front with the ball — but his shot went over the net."

AHS goalkeeper Greg Mongeau made six saves for his sixth solo shutout and the team's eighth.

It was also the third whitewash in four games during which the Golden Warriors allowed only one goal.

Also playing well were wing-defenders Lakow and Mark Murphy, stopper Mike Corey and sweeper Jon Konjoian.

"Konjoian was excellent on head

AHS ROUNDUP

AHS Football

Another hard-to-swallow loss for Warriors, 28-22

By Rick Harrison

A not-so-funny thing happened to the Andover High varsity football team on its way to an upset win over Lowell High.

The Golden Warriors coughed up a 15-point fourth quarter lead and — in the latest chapter to this bizarre-but-entertaining season — lost to the host Red Raiders 28-22 at Cawley Memorial Stadium.

To make matters worse, Lowell scored the winning points with only 16 seconds left in the game.

It marked the fifth time this fall the locals, now 3-5 overall and 2-4 in Merrimack Valley Conference play, had surrendered a late-game lead and lost.

It also marked the eighth straight game both Andover and its opponent scored at least 20 points.

Four of the Golden Warrior losses have been by eight points or less, while all three wins have come by margins of seven or fewer points.

Three of the five losses have been especially excruciating.

In the 34-28 overtime setback to Tewksbury, Andover fumbled on the three yard line in the extra period to end the game.

In the 34-32 defeat to Chelmsford, the locals were stopped one foot shy of the end zone while going for a two-point conversion that would have tied it.

Lowell is the most loss crushing of all, however.

"This one hurts more than the others," confirmed AHS head coach Ken Maglio. "Anyone who saw the game will tell you we outplayed them. We had them 22-7 and then it all fell apart."

The setback overshadowed a spectacular individual performance on offense by Andover's Chris Callison, who seems to get better every week.

Callison scored 20 of the 22 AHS points on TD runs of 23 and five yards, a 28 yard pass reception from QB Brendan Smith and a two-point conversion rush.

He had 106 yards rushing to boost his team-high total to 738 yards, and he caught three passes for 69 more yards.

His 13 touchdowns and 82 points through eight games are the third most by an Andover football player since the Super Bowl years of 1973-75.

With two games left, Callison could top the 100-point plateau and should pass other recent high scorers Steve Shepard (86 points in 1992).

Dave Tucker (84 in 1989), John Perry (84 in 1987) and Mike Giles (84 in 1999).

He could also produce one of the few 1,000 yard rushing seasons ever at the school.

Scouts from Northeastern University were in the stands this week to look at Callison, who has also drawn serious interest from the University of Richmond.

The Golden Warriors took a 6-0 lead over Lowell in an uncharacteristically quiet first half that belied the fireworks to come, with Callison notching the lone TD on a 23 yard run in the second quarter.

Early in the third period Callison added a five yard scoring run and rushed the conversion for a 14-0 lead.

Lowell senior tailback Jeff Ross, the top scorer (160 points) and rusher (1,574 yards) in the state, had been held in check by the Andover defense in the first half.

But he exploded in the final 22 minutes.

"He didn't run like a kid who had missed the previous week's game with an ankle injury," said Maglio. "Once he sees an opening he accelerates to about 90 miles an hour and he's through it. He's a gamebreaker."

"We controlled him until our defense started to tire again."

In fact, Ross was used mostly as a decoy at flanker in the early going and had managed only 12 yards on seven first-half carries.

The native of Liberia, who would finish the night with 181 yards rushing on 28 lugs and score three touchdowns despite the tender right ankle, put the Red Raiders on the board with a one yard run late in the third quarter. Julio Faria's kick trimmed the AHS lead to 14-7.

The locals responded with a quick TD, Callison and QB Brendan Smith hooking up on a 28 yard pass play.

Smith then pitched the conversion aerial to Jason Crabb and the Golden Warriors appeared to be sitting pretty with a 22-7 lead entering the fourth quarter.

Lowell began a 21-point last-period explosion with an eight yard TD run by Ross on the second play of the quarter. Again Faria kicked the point to make it 22-14.

The TD came one play after a 44 yard option pass from backup QB Ken Welch to Jim McNeil. Welch snuck into the lineup as a wide receiver and ran a fake reverse.

Andover took the subsequent kickoff and appeared headed for the touchdown that would break the Red Raiders' back.

But ...

On the 10th play of the drive a well-thrown pass by QB Smith was bobbled twice and dropped in the end zone by the intended receiver.

"Brendan threw a strike and if the catch is made it's the ball game. Lights out — game over," said Maglio.

Instead Andover was faced with a fourth-and-7 at midfield with about four minutes to play. Rather than punt, the Golden Warriors went for it.

"We had punted twice before and both times Lowell rushed 10 men and almost blocked the kick," said Maglio. "We've also had a couple bad snaps over the punter's head this season — so we felt our best chance was to go for the first down."

Brendan Smith threw a middle screen to brother Sean, but Lowell junior line-backer Patrick Sheehan sniffed out the play and nailed the elder Smith at the Lowell 46 after a three yard gain.

The Red Raiders took over on downs, and Ross ripped off 19 and 28 yard gains before QB Sean Callery knifed over from the two to trim the AHS lead to 22-20 with 2:12 to play.

On the attempt for the tying two-point conversion, Ross was stuffed at the one yard line by Chris Barry, Jason Crabb and Sean Smith.

"I thought that stop clinched it for us," admitted Maglio. "We figured they would try an onside kick, we'd recover and run out the clock."

They were right about the onside kick.

Callery sent a high-hopping kick that the omni-present Ross grabbed before he was shoved out of bounds at the Andover 39.

"It was a fluke," said Maglio. "The ball took a wicked hop to the left, tipped off one of our player's hands and Ross got it."

"It was deja vu all over again."

"We had the identical situation the last time we played over there (in 1999)," said Maglio. "We were ahead by two touchdowns in the final minutes. They scored and then Raunny Rosario recovered a similar onside kick. They went about 40 yards in three plays and scored again to win the game (34-33)."

Lowell head coach Scott Boyle knew his time was in an all-or-nothing bind.

"To be honest I didn't think we'd absolutely get the onside kick," he said. "But I thought we had a real good chance because Callery always kicks it so well in practice. Exactly like he did tonight."

Nine plays later, with 16 ticks left on the clock, Ross scored on a five yard run and Callery pitched a two-point conversion pass to Bob Theriault for a 28-22 Lowell lead.

The Golden Warriors had time for one play after the kickoff — and it was predictable they would try something interesting.

A razzle-dazzle play caused Lowell some anxious moments before the ballcarrier was finally brought down near midfield — after a 45 yard gain — as time expired.

Maglio lauded the play of Callison, Crabb and Brendan Smith.

"Brendan (9-for-17 passing, 151 yards, no interceptions) put the ball right in his receivers' hands all night. He also ran the option to perfection, hanging in to hand the ball off several times even though he knew he was about to get clocked," noted the coach.

AHS lost several healthy gains, including a 25 yard sweep, on penalties that Maglio said "we didn't see at the time and couldn't find on the game film, either."

"It seemed like every time we tried to sweep the ball they called a penalty."

The AHS defense was led by Chris Barry and Bruce Brown was slowed in the Lowell game by a deep thigh bruise suffered the previous week in the win over Exeter.

"It really started to hurt him Thursday and the day of the game," said Maglio. "That's why he didn't carry the ball much against Lowell."

"He's been in the whirlpool every day this week and he should be close to 100 percent for Haverhill."

"We're in good health for this week's game. The best thing about this group is they keep plugging away. Nothing fazes them. The attitude is excellent."

□ □ □ □

On Saturday, Brown and Sean Smith will leave for college visits to West Point, where they will attend the Cadets' football game this weekend.

In addition to the service academy and several Ivy League schools, Brown is also being courted by Hofstra and UMass Amherst.

Lowell improved to 8-1 overall and 6-1 atop the MVC after squeezing past Andover.

Central Catholic is second in the league at 5-1, and also retaining an outside shot at the title and a playoff berth are Haverhill and Chelmsford both at 4-2.

Lowell now owns a 13-6 edge in the series over the last 19 meetings, and the Red Raiders have won five of the last six against Andover.

Haverhill invades Lovely Field tomorrow night (7 p.m.).

The Hillies, under new coach Ken Sciacca, are enjoying their best season in awhile with a 6-2 overall record and 4-2 league mark.

But Andover can knock Haverhill out of the title and playoff chases with a victory.

The two teams tied 7-7 last year and Haverhill has not beaten the Warriors since 1996.

Over the past two decades AHS holds a commanding 12-5-3 series edge.

balls and taking the ball out of the air with his feet. He did a good job clearing the ball out of our end," said Amundsen.

Malden Catholic, the 17th seed in the 19-team field, closed out its season at 8-7-4.

QUARTERFINAL ROUND

St. John's Prep 7
Andover 1

Chris Brouillard netted his team-high 10th goal with about eight minutes left to play, but by that time the soaring Eagles had left no doubt as to the outcome.

"We kept the ball pretty much in their end for the first 30 minutes of the game," said coach Amundsen. "Despite the territorial edge we never really produced any serious scoring opportunities."

SJP finally pumped in its first goal and added a second tally on a penalty kick after a questionable call.

"There were four players battling out front for possession of the ball," said Amundsen. "There were no dangerous plays on our part — but one of their kids fell down and the officials gave him the PK. It was the easiest one I've ever seen awarded."

The Eagles' player blasted the ball home, and before the half ended the No. 9 seed added another goal for a 3-0 halftime advantage.

"Early in the second half Brouillard was taken down from behind and there was no call," noted Amundsen. "That play was much more violent than anything we did — but we didn't get a penalty kick."

"If we could have scored then it would have been 3-1 and it might have turned into a different game."

"After they took a 4-0 lead it was tough. At that point the deficit was too much to overcome.

"We would like to have played East Boston," said Amundsen. "I think we would have beaten them and it would have been beneficial to us."

"By not playing we were idle for several more days and it took momentum away from the win over Malden Catholic. We needed that second game before going in against St. John's. It would have made a difference."

Amundsen felt the final score was not a true evaluation of the game.

"We got hammered on the scoreboard today — but we played better than 7-1 would indicate," concluded the veteran AHS coach.

St. John's Prep, which improved to 14-4-2 overall, had moved ahead with a 3-1 first-round victory over Acton-Boxboro.

GIRLS SOCCER

Ah, sweet revenge.

"The word heard most often around here all week was 'Chelmsford.' Even before the first game against Medford. Our girls thought we had the greatest draw in the world."

So said Andover High girls varsity soccer coach Dick Loschi after the Lady Warriors ousted host Chelmsford from the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament with a rain-drenched 3-1 quarterfinal round victory earlier this week.

The Lions, coached by former AHS standout player Anne Murnane, had beaten Andover for the first time ever (5-2) during the regular season on the way to a spectacular 15-1-1 record and the No. 2 seed in the tournament.

But MVC Division 1 runner-up Andover got its payback against MVC Division 2 champ Chelmsford, earning the right to move ahead to the North semifinals.

Two days earlier the locals launched their touney run with a 4-0 first-round romp over Medford.

Schedule

Andover (14-7) was scheduled to play the highest surviving North seed, No. 3 Lincoln-Sudbury (15-1-3), last night after Townsman presstime as part of a doubleheader at the neutral Wayland High field.

The other semifinal at the same site had No. 4 Acton-Boxboro (15-2-3) facing off against No. 8 Newton North (12-4-4).

Dual County League powers L-S and A-B advanced with shutout wins over Waltham (1-0) and Beverly (4-0) respectively, while Newton North stunned No. 1 seed and multi-time state champion Winchester 1-0.

The two semifinal winners will meet for the title this weekend with the exact day, site and time undetermined at presstime.

MIAA TOURNAMENT

FIRST ROUND

Andover 4

Medford 0

It took the Lady Warriors one half to get untracked, but once they did the visiting Mustangs were no match for Andover which pumped in four straight goals.

"The first half was sloppy," said AHS head coach Dick Loschi. "We hadn't competed for a week so it took a while for our legs to come back."

"Medford was stubborn. They weren't giving us anything. They employed a wonderful silent offside trap. We were kicking the ball way too high — and some of that may have been the adrenalin pumping. "At halftime we talked about slowing ourselves down and playing more under control," said Loschi.

As a result, Medford managed only one shot on net in the second half.

"We took 31 shots in the game but only 14 of them were on target," said Loschi. "Their keeper saw a lot of soccer balls flying around her but had to make only 10 saves."

Meghan Charlebois opened the scoring at 4:15 of the second half, Katie Kramer picking up the first of her three points with a left-wing crossing pass that Charlebois shot into the right corner of the net.

Kramer followed with a pair of unassisted goals, her 21st and 22nd of the season, at 22:14 and 28:34.

The first goal came when Kramer lofted a 20 yard shot from a tough angle into the far upper corner of the net.

She made it 3-0 six minutes later after boring in alone on the Mustangs' keeper. Kramer's hard shot appeared to be saved, but the momentum carried the ball over both Kramer and the keeper who watched it roll into the net as they lay on the ground.

Jenny Muller's 16th goal wrapped up the attack at 33:52. She stole the ball from a Medford defender, dribbled about 50 yards on a breakaway and then tucked a shot into the bottom left-hand corner.

AHS keeper Kaitlin Hyde, back from strained hamstring and bruised knee injuries, made three saves on the way to her fourth shutout and the team's seventh.

Playing well for No. 7 seed Andover were outside back Julia Gatti, sweeper Lisa Tylus, midfielder Kaitlin Hill and defender Allie Dexter.

"Medford has one of the top 10 scorers in Eastern Mass. (Akilan King), and Dexter was mainly responsible for her getting rid of the ball quickly whenever she had it."

No. 10 seed Medford finished the season 8-6-3.

QUARTERFINAL ROUND

Chelmsford 1

This game started in a light drizzle and finished in a drenching downpour, the rain pelting the players throughout the second half.

"MIAA officials like to play these games when they're scheduled," explained coach Loschi. "It's in the hands of the home athletic director (Chelmsford's Jack Fletcher) before the opening faceoff — and at that time the rain was very light. Once the game started the field officials have control and they were not going to stop it no matter how hard it rained."

Jenny Muller gave AHS a 1-0 lead with her 18th goal, unassisted at the 12:50 mark of the first half.

She stole the ball from a Lions' defender, cut to the left and drilled a 20 yard shot over CHS goalkeeper Katie Campopiano's head.

Chelmsford tied it 13 minutes into the second half on an unassisted goal by Jill DeRosa.

Ashley Faulk netted the game-winning seven minutes later with the assist to Katie Kramer.

"Kramer fed Faulk a gorgeous ground ball pass that she collected in stride," said Loschi. "And then Ashley buried a hard shot to the far corner."

Faulk's second goal of the night, and eighth of the season, added the insurance with about 30 seconds to play. The assist went to Kaitlin Hill.

"It was tenacious work by both girls," said Loschi. "The keeper bobbed Ashley's first shot, and she kicked the ball three or four more times before it finally went into the net."

"It was an even fight for possession — and the keeper was never kicked so play continued," explained Loschi.

AHS ROUNDUP

The Lady Warriors' hell-bent-for-leather style paid off.

"Our girls were very, very aggressive — beyond what I taught them," said Loschi. "It was a tricky game because of the weather — but under the conditions our kids did an excellent job."

"We shifted a few people around to different positions to present a new look — and for the most part it worked."

Loschi lauded the solid efforts of center-midfielders Allie Dexter and Hill, stopper Julia Gatti, sweeper Lisa Tylus and defenders Loyal Hannah and Courtney Hale.

"It was Hannah's best game since being shifted to defense," said Loschi. "She has tremendous speed and used it to her advantage."

Kaitlin Hyde finished with six saves in the AHS net and Campopiano made eight stops for Chelmsford (15-2-1).

"We play a quick-passing, possession type game and the rain helped neutralize that," said MVC co-coach of the Year Murnane. "After we fell behind we kept pounding away but we couldn't score."

"It was unfortunate it rained so hard — but both teams had to play under the same conditions. No complaints. We had a great season."

Murnane cited Jenna Tulley, an outside midfielder playing out of position, for a fine performance.

FIELD HOCKEY

The most successful Andover High varsity field hockey season in a long, long time came to a close recently with a 1-0 loss to Danvers in an MIAA Division 1 North Tournament quarterfinal round game at Lovely Field.

The setback left the Lady Warriors, who won their first-ever Merrimack Valley Conference championship, with an overall record of 17-2-1 which included an earlier 2-0 tourney win over Needham.

"The girls were upset after the Danvers loss," said head coach Maureen Noone. "This has been a fun year for all of us and no one wanted it to end. It was a terrific group of kids in terms of chemistry. They made it very easy."

"We graduate seven seniors — but we'll return a bunch of younger kids who had a very good experience."

Playing their last field hockey game for AHS were seniors Tristina Carlson, Kara Spang, Elysia Yet, Meg Reilly, Joan Moffitt and goal-tenders Angelica Rotsart and Heather Miller.

Grace Farnham led the team in scoring for the second straight year with 19 goals and six assists in 20 games. The junior forward has 33 goals and 10 assists in two varsity seasons.

The 19 goals are believed to be a single-season school record, while the 33 goals and 43 points are also believed to be AHS career highs.

The Lady Warriors set a team record for shutouts in a season with 14, and they finished with an impressive 48-7 scoring edge on the opposition.

The season opener, a 3-2 win over Methuen, was the only time the locals allowed more than one goal.

MIAA TOURNAMENT

FIRST ROUND

Needham 0

Sophomore forward Adrienne Shea scored her seventh and eighth goals of the season, one in each half, as the Lady Warriors kicked off tourney play with this first-round shutout win over visiting Bay State League member Needham (9-7-1).

It was the first meeting ever between the two schools in field hockey.

Shea netted the only goal necessary at 4:24 of the first half, poking the ball home from a scramble after Stephanie Casper tossed a crossing pass out front from the right side of the field.

The insurance goal in the 10th minute of the second half came off a corner, after a setup feed from outside the circle by Grace Farnham.

The Merrimack Valley Conference champs finished with a 9-3 edge in shots and 14-4 advantage in corners against the Rockets.

"We didn't play our best game of the year," admitted AHS coach Maureen Noone. "The kids were a little nervous. Needham hit the ball hard and it caught our players off guard at the start."

"We had a lot of chances that we didn't capitalize on — but we kept their opportunities to a minimum."

Angelica Rotsart made three saves in net for her ninth solo shutout, the team's third straight and 14th in 19 games.

Owner Abdo Baroud

Mobile Electronics Zone

For those of you who are on the go (and who isn't these days?), Mobile Electronics Zone has everything you need to make your traveling safer, more comfortable, and more enjoyable. From car audio and entertainment systems to navigation systems, car remote starters, car security and alarms, and cellular phones, Mobile Electronics Zone offers an excellent selection at competitive prices. Owner Abdo Baroud takes great pride in providing personal service that is dedicated to customer satisfaction. Abdo says, "Many people are pleasantly surprised to find that they don't have to sacrifice service to get a good price. Our prices are competitive with larger businesses, including mail order. Our installers have 18 years experience, and customers can always count on us to be here when they need us. After people discover us, they tell all their friends and family. Word of mouth brings in a lot of customers."

Abdo says that an entertainment system is one of the best investments you can make when you are traveling with children. Systems from $499 and up allow passengers to enjoy watching TV, DVD's, and videos, or to play video games. Wireless headphones and separate systems give adults the option to listen to their own music in the front seat.

For the ultimate in comfort and security, a car remote starter can be installed in any car. Warm up or cool off your car without setting foot outside. Starting at $179, these make thoughtful gifts for the person who has everything.

You'll save time, money, and aggravation with a car navigation system. These wonderful devices provide voice directions, ensuring your safe arrival at any destination.

With rebates and store discounts, purchasing a cell phone can be a real bargain at Mobile Electronics Zone. Cellular phone services are now so competitive with home phones that Abdo says cell phones are often cheaper to use. For example, VoiceStream offers 500 minutes from Monday to Friday and unlimited minutes on the weekend nationwide for only $39.99 a month. Abdo takes the time to match each customer's needs to the best plan and there is a wealth of phone styles, colors, designs, and accessories, any of which would make a great gift.

Gift certificates are available at Mobile Electronics Zone. The store is conveniently located 1/4 mile from Andover at 431 So. Union St. (Rte. 114), Lawrence. Telephone (978) 974-0004. Hours are Mon.- Sat. 8:30a.m.- 6p.m. A full service contract postal unit is also located on the premises.

Cosmos Restaurant

Cosmos Restaurant has something for everyone. Whether you dine in its cozy and intimate dining room or relax in the lounge with its full bar, Keno, and big screen TV, you will feel right at home while you enjoy their delicious Greek and American food. Inspired by the great food and comfortable atmosphere, people often find themselves enjoying a chat with the folks next to them. Cosmos is owned and operated by Peter and Jeanne Gianoukos, who insist on using only the freshest high quality ingredients for the wide variety of homemade selections on the menu.

Cosmos is known for its Greek and American specialties such as Souvlakia (kebabs), Mousaka (eggplant, zucchini, ground beef topped with Bechamel sauce), Dolmades (stuffed vine leaves), and various lamb dishes. It also has a reputation for its fresh seafood, prepared in a variety of ways. You can order top quality steak and chicken charbroiled to order. The baby back ribs are nearly legendary, with people going out of their way to tell Peter and Jeanne how much they enjoy them. You will have no trouble finding something for the children when they can choose from traditional kid favorites like chicken fingers, french fries, spaghetti, and hamburgers. Daily specials show off their chefs' skills with creative dishes, including seafood specials on Friday. They recently featured Haddock Roulade and Seafood Primavera over Penne Pasta. Save room for dessert. The traditional Greek desserts, such as Baklava, are prepared by Jeanne herself.

Cosmos is located at 940 Riverside Drive in Methuen, on the Merrimack River. Hours are Mon.-Sat. 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sun. 4 p.m. to 9 p.m., with extended lounge hours. Take out is available. There is ample parking and handicapped accessibility. Major credit cards are honored. Telephone (978) 682-2330.

Christmas Decor by Vale Landscaping

Vale Landscaping has been in the landscaping and construction business in the Andover area since 1983 and their Christmas Decor business began operating in the area in 1997. Christmas Decor is a company originally based out of Lubbock, Texas, that has developed an expert professional indoor and outdoor decorating business offering exclusive franchises to the U.S. and Canada.

Bill Ferris' crews have been expertly trained to Christmas Decor standards by passing a complete comprehensive test certifying them as trained professionals. Their service is turnkey for the customer, whether they be "Residential" or "Commercial", with Christmas Decor providing sales and installation of top quality lights and other decorations, including garlands, wreaths, and bows. Take down & removal, packing, and storage are also part of the program, making Christmas Decor a one-stop shop. They also offer complete residential purchase programs as well as commercial lease programs.

Christmas Decor of Andover was the first Christmas Decor franchise in the Northeast of what are now 350 dealers across the country. They were also chosen Northeast Franchise of the Year for 1999, and were featured on the Channel 5 six o'clock news on December 12, of "2000".

As we enter the year "2002" we feel people will be celebrating the joy of Christmas more than ever this season. As a result of the recent tragedy felt by our country, Americans are uniting in a way not seen for a very long time. We want to do our part. Knowing we are in a position to help supply patriotic items which are readily available to us, we will be donating 10% of any patriotic purchases any customers may make to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund. This donation will be in addition to any other discount program we offer, which is currently 10% of all new purchases up until October 31st. Some of our patriotic items are lit flags as well as red, white, and blue light spheres, among several other items.

Christmas Decor is now actively designing and scheduling customized lighting programs for Christmas "2001". For reservations and more information, call Bill or Leslie Ferris at Vale Landscaping / Christmas Decor. Telephone (978) 475-1308. Fax (978) 623-7255.

AHS ROUNDUP

Cited for strong play were right wing Elysia Yet, midfielder Casper, Farnham and freshman forward Jacqui Munro.

"Grace moved the ball very well and Jacqui is perpetual motion. She just goes and goes and goes," said Noone in reference to the Lady Warriors' Energizer Bunny.

QUARTERFINAL ROUND

Danvers 1

Andover 0

The Lady Warriors, shut out for the third time this fall, had their chances but couldn't capitalize.

The visiting Falcons, who were seeded 7th and improved to 12-2-3, also knocked off defending State Division 1 champ Acton-Boxboro 1-0 in their journey opener.

"Danvers dominated the first half and had an 8-1 advantage in corners," said coach Noone. "They were very aggressive. They swung the sticks hard."

"We started to take over after they scored early in the second half. We had 11 corners in the half but couldn't get a break."

"They double-teamed Grace (Farnham)," added Noone. "They were on her as soon as she got the ball. But she moved well considering the attention she was getting."

The Falcons' Jacqui Loravee scored the game's only goal six minutes into the second half.

Angelica Rotsart made seven saves in the AHS net, while standout performances were contributed by forward Joan Moffitt, midfielder Stephanie Casper and center-back Amanda Gallant who was the flyer on corners.

Andover scrimmaged Danvers during the pre-season during a Play Day at Danvers High, beating the Falcons 1-0 in a 20-minute mini-game.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 runner-up Andover was seeded second in the tiny six-team MIAA Division 1 North Tournament field.

The Lady Warriors, 17-3 overall, drew a bye and will open play tonight when conference rival and No. 3 seed Billerica (17-4) invades the Dunn Gym for a best-of-5 match at 7 p.m.

LEGAL NOTICES

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by John Ventre a/k/a John W. Ventre and Janice Ventre to New Century Mortgage Corporation, dated December 19, 2000 and recorded with the Essex County (N.D.) Registry of Deeds at Book 6037, Page 321, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, and in which the mortgaged premises consist of certain real estate located in Andover, known as and numbered 44 Farrwood Drive, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at 10:00 a.m. on the 3rd day of December, 2001, at said mortgaged premises in Andover, Essex County, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage.

To wit:
The land in Andover, Essex County, Massachusetts being shown as Lot #33 on Sheet 1 of a plan entitled "Subdivision Plan of Farrwood Forest, Andover Massachusetts owner Roy R. Farr, Sagamore Drive, Scale 1"=40", 10 April 1967, Raymond C. Pressey, Inc., C.E." recorded with Essex North District Registry of Deeds as Plan No. 5806, said lot being more particularly bounded and described as follows:

NORTHERLY by the Southerly line of the circular portion of Farrwood Drive, 89.01 feet;
EASTERLY by lot #34, 260.81 feet;
SOUTHERLY by land of New England Power Company, 230.00 feet;
SOUTHWESTERLY by land now or formerly of Thomas A. Thompson, 73.69 feet; and NORTHWESTERLY by lot #32 on said plan, 238.29 feet.

Containing 48,010 square feet as shown on said plan.

For title, see Book 2086, Page 292.

Said sale shall be subject to all restrictions, easements, improvements, covenants, outstanding tax titles, liens or claims in the nature of liens, existing encumbrances of record, Federal, State and Municipal taxes or tax liens, municipal betterments and easements, if any, created prior to the mortgage being foreclosed upon. Said premises shall also be sold subject to all leases and tenancies having priority over said mortgage, to tenancies or occupations by persons on the premises now and at the time of said auction, which tenancies or occupants are subject to said mortgage, to rights or claims in personal property installed by tenants or former tenants now located on the premises, and also to all laws and ordinances, including, but not limited to, all building and zoning laws and ordinances.

TERMS OF SALE:

Ten Thousand and 00/100 Dollars ($10,000.00) shall be paid in certified or bank cashier's check by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid by certified or bank cashier's check at the offices of Steven A. Ross, Esq., Gilmartin, Magence & Ross, P.C., 376 Boylston Street, Boston, MA 02116 within thirty (30) days from the date of sale. The successful bidder of the sale of the premises shall be required to sign a Memorandum of Terms of Sale containing the above terms at the Auction Sale.

Other terms, if any, to be announced at the time and place of sale.

The postal address of the mortgaged premises is known to me as 44 Farrwood Drive, Andover, MA 01810.

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance, boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes, you can list your items in the Andover Townsman's "Recycle" column (FREE of charge!) It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write us listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please

HEALTHY LIVING

Maintaining a well-balanced vegetarian diet

By Sue Tabb

The choice to become a vegetarian is a very personal one with motives that range from improved health and weight loss to moral and ethical issues. Whatever the reason, it appears vegetarian diets are rapidly gaining in popularity, as more products become available that cater to this lifestyle choice.

According to the American Dietetic Association, "Vegetarian diets that are low in animal products are typically lower than nonvegetarian diets in total fat, saturated fat and cholesterol..." These are factors associated with the increased risk of many health problems, including coronary heart disease, obesity, high blood pressure and some forms of cancer.

While the health benefits seem obvious, it's important to note that vegetarian diets reap these benefits only when planned properly and when nutritional needs are adequately met. Eliminating meat doesn't automatically create a healthy diet. Whether you are a semi-vegetarian (diet excludes red meat), lacto vegetarian (diet is plant foods plus cheese and other dairy products), lacto-ovo vegetarian (diet is plant foods plus dairy products and eggs) or a total vegetarian or "vegan" (diet is only foods of plant origin), you must consider which nutrients are important. According to the Web site www.veggie.org, the American Heart Association puts forth the following recommendations regarding nutrients to consider in a vegetarian diet.

- Protein: Plant proteins alone can provide enough amino acids, as long as sources of dietary protein are fairly varied and caloric intake is high enough to meet energy needs. Whole grains, legumes, vegetables, seeds and nuts all contain both essential and nonessential amino acids.

- Soy: Soy protein has been shown to be equal in nutritional value to proteins of animal origin.

- Iron: Vegetarians are not at greater risk for iron deficiency than nonvegetarians. Dried beans, spinach, enriched products, brewer's yeast and dried fruits are all good plant sources of iron.

- Vitamin B-12: This vitamin comes naturally from animal sources only and can be found in some fortified (not enriched) breakfast cereals, fortified soy beverages, some brands of nutritional yeast and in vitamin supplements.

- Vitamin D: Vegans should have a reliable source of this vitamin — a supplement may be needed for vegans who get little sunlight.

- Calcium: Studies have shown that vegetarians absorb and retain more calcium from foods than do nonvegetarians. Vegetable greens such as spinach, kale and broccoli and some legumes and soybean products are good sources of calcium from plants.

- Zinc: Zinc is needed for growth and development. Good plant sources include grains, nuts and legumes.

Lyssa Petter, a registered dietitian at Holy Family Hospital's Nutrition Center in Methuen, says that strict vegetarians have to be especially careful to get all of the nutrients they need; they don't need special vitamins or supplements as long as they're not avoiding major food groups. Since amino acids are building blocks for protein, vegetarians need to be sure they are eating a varied diet that provides all nine essential amino acids.

"When making food purchases ... there are soy alternatives out there like soy milk that is fortified with B-12 and calcium; there are some cold cereals that are fortified with B vitamins, zinc and iron," says Ms. Petter. "There are great resources available — great vegetarian cookbooks in bookstores and online that give good information on meeting dietary needs."

Based on her own experience, Ms. Petter says that the population of people who are becoming vegetarians or semi-vegetarians for health reasons is increasing. However, she cautions that becoming a vegetarian is not necessarily going to cause you to lose weight.

"You can be a vegetarian with a healthy lifestyle or a nonvegetarian with a healthy lifestyle, but the reverse is true for both as well," says Ms. Petter.

Ms. Petter says that a vegetarian diet generally encompasses more whole-grain breads, legumes and nuts that are more healthful than the average American diet. But, if people are still eating a lot of cheeses or other dairy products that aren't low-fat, it's not necessarily going to be more healthful than a nonvegetarian diet.

The good news is that local markets now carry many products that cater to a vegetarian diet, including items such as vegetarian soup or chili, textured soy products such as veggie burgers and marinated soy tofu and vegetarian pizza with soy-based cheese. Many restaurants will also eliminate the animal protein from a dish on request.

Ms. Petter says that special attention should be paid to children who are vegetarians to ensure that they are getting what they need in terms of calories for proper growth and development. But, she says that even strict vegetarians can get all of the protein they need from plant products, since there is some protein in almost every food but fruit.

But, isn't it harder and more time-consuming to be a vegetarian, with the limited options? Ms. Petter says not necessarily. You may have to invest some time initially to read grocery labels, but you get to know the products. There are also more and more options at local markets, including sections devoted to all-natural foods and specialty stores that cater to people with specific dietary needs.

Ruth Kennedy, a North Reading resident who has been a vegetarian for 14 years, agrees with Ms. Petter. She doesn't believe it's any harder or that her options are limited as a result of choosing a vegetarian lifestyle.

"It's part of your routine; it's the way you live your life. I don't think it's any more complicated to go and buy an eggplant than to pick out a steak," says Ms. Kennedy. "There is a lot more vegetable slicing, so some recipes may take longer in preparation, but I wouldn't change my eating habits because of that ... just invest in a good set of knives."

Ms. Kennedy says that the tricky part is learning to read ingredients and recognizing what types of things are animal products. She believes companies are fairly aware of what's healthy, but she still checks labels. Local supermarkets have plenty of options - Ms. Kennedy and her family enjoy many of the soy products available now.

"There are a lot of very good soy products that you would never know are soy. (There's) veggie ground round that you can find in the produce section that can go into anything - chili, tomato sauce, tacos - anything that you would use ground beef for. It's low in fat and high in protein - it's good for you," says Ms. Kennedy.

Beans, pasta and rice are other staples in the Kennedy household. Ms. Kennedy cooks chili, burritos, enchiladas and many other dishes that are fast and easy, since both she and her husband work. She favors lentil and pea soup in the wintertime and often cooks one-pot dishes for the ease and convenience and because they re-heat well.

Ms. Kennedy, who would technically be considered a semi-vegetarian because she does eat fish, dairy products and eggs, also favors dishes such as quiche and eggplant Parmesan. Her husband is not a vegetarian but likes many ethnic dishes, including Asian and Mexican recipes that they both can enjoy. Restaurants are not a problem, since they avoid those that specialize in the more standardized American fare and frequent those with a more varied menu. The East Coast Grille in Cambridge and Fire and Ice in Boston are among the Kennedys' favorite eateries.

Ms. Kennedy agrees that becoming a vegetarian is a personal choice. She has a 15-month-old daughter who is too young to make that determination. For now, meat is not served simply because Ms. Kennedy doesn't cook it; however, when the time comes, the choice will be her daughter's.

"It's my choice and I'm not making it for my daughter," insists Ms. Kennedy. "(When she gets older) if she decides to eat meat - that's OK, too."

Carbohydrates not a culprit, after all

(NAPSA) – Thanks to popular high-protein diets such as Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution, Sugar Busters! and Protein Power, carbohydrates have gotten a bad name, and people all over the country are avoiding them like the plague. But, an unbalanced diet that relies on one food group, or excludes one totally, goes against scientifically-based, recommended guidelines for good nutrition and well-being.

Experts say that carbohydrates play an essential role in a healthy diet that includes a complete range of all food groups.

Independence.

Throughout one's life, independence plays a very important role. Heritage at North Andover is an assisted living community where seniors find the services and security they need without giving up their cherished independence. Our staff's ability to balance a person's pride with their need for assistance evolves from our philosophy of respect for individualism and privacy. While residents are free to rely on our staff as much or as little as they like, they have the peace of mind of knowing the assistance is always available 24 hours/day.

But independence also means fulfillment and involvement. Heritage at North Andover offers both. Lectures, social gatherings, cultural programs, exercise programs, and a variety of activities are regularly scheduled. Shared community areas such as the library, beauty salon, general store, private dining rooms, lounge areas and activity rooms are also available for enjoying the companionship of neighbors, friends and family.

Additionally, we offer three delicious meals served daily in our dining room, a weekly housekeeping/flat linen service, 24 hour staff, weekly scheduled transportation and utilities.

If you or someone you know would benefit from the wonderful way of life at Heritage at North Andover, please call Dina Cottone Lynch for more information at (978) 683-1300.

chemicals in the body that decrease appetite, which is helpful to dieters. And, on a gram per gram basis, carbohydrates provide fewer calories than fats."

Be aware, however, that carbohydrates come in two varieties: simple and complex. The simple kind crop up in high-sugar commodities such as candy, honey and rich desserts, which are full of calories and little else.

Complex carbohydrates, on the other hand, provide a cornucopia of essential vitamins and minerals the body needs. And, finding these carbs is a breeze. High-fiber, low-fat foods such as vegetables, fruits and grains are good sources of complex carbohydrates, which are lower in sugar than simple-carb foods and provide longer-lasting energy.

Therefore, people need carbohydrates, just as they do other essential nutritional elements. Eliminating them, in fact, can pose risks. For example, many heart patients have to be particularly careful to avoid low-carb or no-carb diets because they ban fruit such as bananas, a potent source of potassium. Since these patients' hearts aren't pumping properly, their bodies often retain water, causing swollen ankles and wrists. To remedy the situation, their doctors often prescribe diuretics. But, says

Ms. Cross, "Diuretics cause the body to lose its supply of potassium, which helps the heart and other muscles to contract. Without potassium, patients frequently experience painful muscle cramps."

Fortunately, there's a simple solution.

"Just by eating one banana a day, the patient gets the potassium he or she needs, and the problem is solved," says Ms. Cross.

As it turns out, the potassium found in bananas serves a number of other positive functions. The American Heart Association says that potassium can help prevent and treat high blood pressure and inhibit the risk of stroke. And, researchers at Tufts University have found that, among the elderly, adequate potassium intake can help slow the loss of calcium from bones that results in osteoporosis.

What's more, bananas are an excellent choice because they're free of fat, sodium and cholesterol; they're loaded with vitamin B6, and they supply vitamin C, which helps build the body's resistance to infection and may help prevent the conversion of nitrates into cancer-causing substances (nitrates are found in tobacco smoke and smog, among other things). And, since bananas are a filling snack, they work wonders against dieters' cravings.

In the end, everyone — young and old, male and female — benefits from a well-rounded diet that consists of healthy choices from all food groups, including carbohydrates. And, it's never too soon to start. Studies have shown that children who start the day with a healthy breakfast such as cereal, milk and a banana, perform better in school. Healthy eating habits formed while young have an excellent chance of lasting a lifetime.

(NU) – Experts have long preached the importance of a high-quality innerspring mattress and warned people to avoid fads and gimmicks such as air and water mattresses.

Just ask Arthur Grehan, industry expert and executive director of the American Innerspring Manufacturers, a nonprofit group that provides free information on restful sleep and sleep surfaces.

"Research into sleep habits shows that a healthy sleeper turns between 40 and 60 times a night," Mr. Grehan says.

That's a lot of motion for one person in a standard 38-inch-wide twin bed, Mr. Grehan insists, and it's often even more noticeable for two people in a standard 53-inch-wide double bed.

"As we have learned more about sleep habits," he says,

"Research into sleep habits shows that a healthy sleeper turns between 40 and 60 times a night."

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF AMERICAN INNER-
SPRING MANUFACTURERS
ARTHUR GREHAN

"more couples have replaced their double bed with a queen bed."

Industry experts are also speaking up for youth.

"Kids often sleep on worn-out, hand-me-down mattresses, and they often sleep on child-sized beds well beyond the point that their bodies need full-sized beds," Mr. Grehan says.

Many studies have linked poor sleep to poor performance in school. "That's a disadvantage that could haunt a child for his or her entire life," Mr. Grehan insists. AIM feels so strongly about the issue that it has produced a free comic book, "Sleepyhead," about proper sleep.

So, what's the proper size mattress for you? AIM recommends families follow these guidelines:

– Teen-ager: Once children begin the growth that characterizes the teen-age years, parents should consider moving them to a double bed for maximum rest and academic performance;

– Single adult: Adults should aim for a sleep space at least 40 inches wide – that most likely means a double bed; and – Couples: Adults sharing a bed will most likely find maximum comfort if they have at least 30 inches each – that means a queen bed for average-sized adults or a king for above-average couples.

"We learn more each day about the importance of sleep in daily health and performance," Mr. Grehan says. "I hope people take this information seriously."

Memphis, Tenn.-based AIM provides information about healthy sleep free of charge. Its wide selection of materials – including the popular, pocket-sized "Ten Tips for Buying a New Mattress" – is available at www.aiminfo.org or by calling (800) TUCK-ME-IN.

HEALTHY LIVING

A health warning about sports supplements

ILLUSTRATION COURTESY OF NAPSA

(NAPSA) - Sports supplements can now be purchased readily at many stores and online. Lured by claims of better bodies and athletic performance, more and more teenagers are turning to these over-the-counter substances.

A recent study found that 6 percent of youngsters aged 15 and 16 and 8 percent of 17- and 18-year-olds have taken a sports supplement. About one in four said they knew someone who took the products.

While makers claim these pills, drinks and powders are harmless, the government does not regulate them and there are no reliable studies proving their long-term safety.

"The standards of medical ethics would never allow the experiment that is being conducted on our nation's children," says Bernard Griesemer, M.D., a pediatric sports medicine specialist. "Unregulated dietary supplements such as andro may be causing harm to children and teens, but today's users may not feel the full effect of that harm until they are adults."

To provide reliable information to young athletes, parents and coaches, following is a list of some of the most widely marketed sports supplements that contain potentially harmful substances. They contain one of three ingredients that may cause health problems.

- Androstenedione (andro) is used in the hopes of increasing muscle size. It can cause premature puberty and stunted growth in adolescents, prostate trouble, feminization and large breasts in men and increase the risk of heart disease by 10 to 15 percent in everyone, because it lowers levels of the "good" cholesterol, HDL. A study in the Journal of the American Medical Association found that andro had no effect on the ability to gain strength and muscle.

- Creatine, taken to increase energy, may lead to weight gain, mainly in the form of retained water, and may cause muscle cramps and kidney problems. According to a Mount Sinai School of Medicine study, 44 percent of high school senior athletes report using creatine.

- Ephedra (Ma Huang), is an herbal stimulant that acts like "speed" and may cause heart problems. The Food and Drug Administration warns that ephedra may have been responsible for several deaths and hundreds of injuries.

Sports supplements may pose health dangers to young athletes, medical experts warn.

New perspectives on caffeine and headache

(NAPS) – Caffeine has been enjoyed by millions of people around the world for centuries. In one form or another, the average American consumes about 200 to 300 mg of caffeine per day, and many say caffeine helps energize them and allows them to perform at their peak.

What many people may not know is that caffeine has been used to help treat headaches for many years. Caffeine has also been added to prescription and over-the-counter pain relievers to boost their efficacy.

But, how much caffeine is too much? Can people who regularly consume caffeine in the form of coffee or cola still use a "caffeinated" pain reliever without overdoing it? To help answer questions such as these, the National Headache Foundation, a nonprofit organization that provides information to headache sufferers and promotes headache research, asked a panel of medical experts to examine the published material on the relationship between caffeine and headache. The panel agreed with published studies that show that caffeine, when combined with aspirin and acetaminophen, enhances the pain-relieving power of these over-the-counter headache medicines – by up to as much as 40 percent. In addition, the panel reviewed safety data and concluded that caffeine, when used properly, is not addictive and poses no health risk for most people.

According to Jerome Goldstein, M.D., director of the San Francisco Headache Clinic and chair of the expert panel, caffeine offers another benefit. "Because medications that contain caffeine work faster, there is less likelihood that people will need to take more of the medicine, and the risks of unwanted side effects are reduced."

To help consumers understand the findings, the National Headache Foundation has developed an information brochure, "New Perspectives on Caffeine and Headache," that offers new ways to help people understand the relationship between caffeine and headache and help them make a well-informed decision about treatment. Consumers can also learn ways to measure their caffeine consumption and gain a better understanding of the role caffeine plays in treating headaches.

"We wanted to bring consumers the opinions of experts to help them make the right decisions about treating their headaches," says Suzanne Simons, executive director of the National Headache Foundation. "Our hope is that the findings of this panel and the information in the brochure will help eliminate any confusion headache sufferers may have regarding what triggers their headaches and how to treat them."

The "New Perspectives on Caffeine and Headache" brochure addresses the science behind caffeine's headache-fighting properties. By increasing the production of stomach acid, caffeine helps the body absorb headache medicines more quickly. Caffeine also constricts certain blood vessels, which reduces blood flow and eases pressure associated with certain headaches, such as painful migraines. The brochure offers a quiz that helps people determine how much caffeine they consume on a daily basis, a list of the most common sources of caffeine and a chart to gain a better idea of their weekly caffeine intake. Common questions about caffeine are also addressed, such as:

- Can I become addicted to caffeine?
- What happens when I stop consuming caffeine?

- How can I avoid rebound headaches and caffeine withdrawal?
